Russia To Be Branded With Korean War Guilt

To Press Motion Of Condemnation

By PIERRE J. HUSS
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Aug. 4.—The United States indirectly will pin the guilt for the Korean aggression on Russia today, stressing to the United Nations that "international communism" can call off the North Korean invader at will.

Warren R. Austin, chief of the U. S. team to the United Nations, intends to follow up in the Security Council this afternoon his double victory over Russia yesterday. He will press for adoption of the U. S. motion condemning the aggression and calling on all governments to join in forcing the invader to his knees.

Soviet To Veto

The Soviet Union is certain to veto the U. S. motion, but Austin will touch off his new diplomatic offensive in answer to three days of Soviet obstruction and propagandizing aimed at wrecking the U. N. common victory front on Korea.

Soviet Chairman Jacob Malik has called the United States the "aggressor" in what he termed a "civil war" between political groups in Korea.

Malik told the security council yesterday in an acrid verbal duel with Austin that the council must choose to follow Russia on "the road to peace" or the United States "on the road to war". He appealed to the security council to drop its support of Korean military intervention.

The majority of the 11 delegates gave pronounced emphasis late in the day to their disbelief and mistrust of Maliks' claims by slapping a double defeat on him. They gave top priority to the American demand for unbroken consideration

Browning Wins For Governor In Tennessee

Former GOP Head Leads For Congress

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 4.—(INS)—Nearly complete returns in Tennessee' primary elections today gave Gov. Gordon Browning a 30,000-vote lead over State Sen. Clifford Allen in his bid for renomination on the Democratic ticket.

With 1,926 of the state's 2,300 precincts reporting, Browning had 163,375 votes to 132,008 for Allen. The nomination is tantamount to election.

In the Republican primary, former GOP national chairman Carroll Reece spurted to a slim lead over Dayton Phillips in a bitterly-fought contest for nomination in the state's first congressional district, one of the two dominated by Republicans.

The count from 232 of 281 precincts gave Reece 26,333 votes and Phillips 24,824.

In the Republican-controlled second district, Howard Baker leads incumbent John Jennings, Jr., 18,191 votes to 8,562 with 193 of 279 precincts tallied.

The election's hottest fight came in the ninth congressional district, where Democratic Rep. Jere Cooper had 19,554 votes to 19,340 for Robert A. Everett with only 20 precincts still to be counted.

Incumbent Rep. Pat Sutton scored an easy victory over Dave Alexander in the seventh district Democratic race, originally expected to be a tight contest.

Marines Engaged In Furious Fight; Reds Are Halted

By HOWARD HANDLEMAN
(Far Eastern Director, I. N. S.)

TOKYO, Aug. 5—(SATURDAY)—United States Marines seized an enemy hill position Friday as reinforced American troops held the Naktong river line with fierce counter-attacks.

A front dispatch from International News Service War Correspondent John Rich said a platoon of Marines, making their first contact with the enemy, captured the hill as a small Red group fled.

A leatherneck patrol sighted the enemy position and called in the platoon, which quickly encircled it.

The zone in which the action took place was not disclosed.

Violent fighting exploded anew on the approaches to Masa, five miles west of Pusan, but the Red invaders could not breach the American line.

General Douglas MacArthur reported early Saturday there was "no letup in heavy pressure" of the enemy.

MacArthur triumphantly added:

"The enemy is still unable to advance in this area due to counter-attacking American forces."

The supreme commander in his communique issued at 12:05 a. m. Saturday (10:05 a. m. EDT, Friday) confirmed an earlier report that 600 Reds were killed in the Chinju area Thursday.

He described the area of fiercest fighting as "an arc running from 20 miles southeast to 11 miles east to 15 miles northeast of Chinju."

Furious fighting continued in the vicinity of Yongdok on the east coast with the enemy employing heavy artillery and mortar fire.

"However, positions were reported as stable," MacArthur said.

Concerning other sectors, MacArthur's communique reported:

Reds Regrouping

"Except for both friendly and enemy patrols the remainder of the front is still disengaged. Indications are that Communist forces are regrouping with the possible shifting of two more divisions to the fighting in the south."

American forces beat off a fourth Red onslaught Friday night after throwing back three enemy attacks on the Naktong defenses Thursday and early Friday.

The fresh battle erupted around Wonbungni, 12 miles west of Masan in the vital southern sector where the U. S. Army's 25th Division was hastily shifted from the north to aid the long-embattled 24th Division.

In Pusan itself all civilians were ordered off the streets at 6 o'clock Friday evening (4 a. m. EDT) in a drastic emergency measure not immediately expiained by officials. These streets, which for days have been crowded with refugees impeding military traffic, were cleared by soldiers who raced through the port city's various districts in trucks.

Three North Korean divisions were in action between Chinju and Mason.

A front report said the Reds were moving 45 tanks to the southern battlefield but General Douglas MacArthur later announced they were wrecks of tanks destroyed by American air strikes.

Capture General

American officials at a South Korean port said Friday night that a North Korean army general and two other Red officers were taken prisoners by the Americans in the fighting east of Chinju. It was unconfirmedly reported that the general, identified as commander of the North Korean 6th division's 14th and 15th regiments, had surrendered voluntarily.

Up to that time, a first lieutenant and several second lieutenants

Manchurian Troops Thought In Fight

By HOWARD HANDLEMAN
(Far Eastern Director, I. N. S.)

TOKYO, Aug. 4.—(INS)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur's intelligence officers are checking closely today on reports that Chinese Communists troops already are fighting in Korea.

Air reconnaissance of North Korean Communist territory was intensified amid mounting reports that Communist China is helping Red Korean with both troops and materiel.

A B-29 reconnaissance plane spotted heavy troop concentrations moving southward from the Sinuiji sector near the Manchurian border on the Yalu river.

Rail Movements

The U. S. airmen observed large Red troop movements by rail from a point 20 miles north of Chonjim to the vicinity of Hongwon on the far North Korean east coast.. The city of Chongjim is 42 miles south of the Manchurian-North Korean border.

MacArthur's top intelligence officers believe these troops are not of the North Korean army. They suspect the new troop concentrations are from Manchuria.

The intelligence officers believe the new troop concentrations are composed of Koreans from a Korean "colony" which has been in Manchuria several generations and whose youth have had combat experience with the Chinese Communist army.

Intelligence headquarters said the colony probably could muster at least 150,000 fighting men.

At least 1,500,000 Koreans are known to be living just above the Yalu river.

The United States is mounting

INDIANTOWN GAP, Pa., Aug. 4.—(INS)—Troops of Pennsylvania's 28th Infantry Division today are scheduled for their last active day of field training as national guardsmen.

Company inspections will occupy tomorrow's program and a formal review on the Indiantown Gap military reservation's parade ground will be held Sunday afternoon before Gov. James H. Duff, Gen. Mark W. Clark, army ground forces commander, and the public.

Meanwhile, administrative officers are waging the battle of paper work necessary to get the troops back home and to prepare for the transition to federal status within 30 days from August 7.

State Adj. Gen. Frank A. Weber and railroad representatives yesterday worked out schedules for rail movements to home stations starting Monday noon.

The three infantry regiments will return by train while artillery units will move by motor convoy.

Eight trains will load the troops instead of the 15 originally scheduled for the end of camp, August

Great Britain To Prepare For Huge Defense Program

By JAMES E. BROWN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Aug. 4.—Great Britain informed the United States today that she is prepared to start a nine billion dollar defense program but will require substantial American financial aid.

The British decision was contained in a memorandum sent to the U. S. government outlining a plan covering a three-year period.

The exact amount of American aid the British will seek was not disclosed but a reliable source said that Britain wants the United States to meet half the defense outlay in dollars.

Figures reportedly were discussed at a Wednesday meeting of Prime Minister Clement Attlee with U. S. Ambassador to London Lewis W. Douglas.

Douglas is understood to have said that the proposal on outright dollar grants would not be acceptable to congress but that congress might be prepared to provide the equivalent in arms and armament manufacturing machinery.

The ceiling on the proposed defense program was set at three billion, 400 million pounds, or nine billion, 520 million dollars.

The London Daily Express criticized the British government's demand that America pay a proportion of the defense bill.

The Daily Mail complained that

Call Reserves In September

19 To 25 Men First, To Serve 21 Months

By JAMES LEE
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4. — The army announced today that 62,000 enlisted reservists will be called up in September and October for an active service period of 21 months. The first call will be for men aged 19 to 25.

An official statement said that "the reservists will be used primarily to bring to full strength the National Guard and organized reserve units being ordered to active duty."

It was emphasized that key specialists affected by the call-up will be assigned to "duties essential to the current army expansion."

The army said that 32,000 enlisted reserves will be in training camps by September 15, and that the remaining 30,000 will be on active duty by October 15.

There are about 185,000 enlisted reservists on army rolls. They are listed as individuals and are in a different category than men in organized National Guard and reserve units.

Most of the men affected are World War II veterans who signed up in the reserve in order to retain their wartime ranks.

The roster includes, however, a considerable number of potential draftees who enlisted in the reserve two years ago in order to forestall induction.

Old Woman Dies Police Inquire

Doctor Gets $100,000 Heirs Not Satisfied

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Aug. 4.—(INS)—State police were investigating today the death of a 74-year-old woman who left an estate valued at about $100,000 to her 48-year-old physician.

Dr. Donald F. Gibson, who explained that the dead woman "was deeply in love with me," was to have been married yesterday afternoon to the widow of another deceased patient.

His marriage was postponed when probate Judge Hjalmar Anderson refused to waive the state's five-day waiting law, shortly after Coroner Theodore E. Steiber ordered the inquest for next Tuesday in Bridgeport.

The police entered the case after a cousin of Miss Elizabeth May Ayers, of Danbury, protested her will. The body was examined by Dr. John D. Booth, assistant medical examiner, who declared:

"Miss Ayres died a violent and untimely death and I am not satisfied that the said death was not caused by the criminal act, omission, or carelessness of any other person or persons."

Coroner Steiber, ordering Dr.

Urges Gas Dealers To Stage 'Sitdown'

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 4.—(INS)—The New Jersey Gasoline Dealers Association asked all gasoline dealers to close down next Tuesday in protest against the gasoline price war now raging in the state.

The association president, John Dressler, urged the dealers to join a motorcade to a mass meeting in Trenton on that day to protest against what he called the "unfair price cutting tactics of the Sun Oil company and other major concerns".

Dressler said the meeting will consider an eight-day strike unless Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll calls a state investigation and orders the companies stop their unfair tactics.

According to Dressler, one-third of New Jersey's 6,000 gasoline stations are involved in the price war.

Most of the dealers have dropped the price of regular gasoline from 24 and 9/10th cents a gallon to 20 and 9/10th cents.

Appropriations Bill Near Ready

Late Amendments Delay Passage

By FRANK B. ALLEN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—The senate tries again today to complete action on its one-package appropriations bill which now carries 34 billion, 196 million dollars to run the government until June 30.

Wrangles over last-minute amendments prevented a final vote Thursday night although the chamber was in session until 9:30 p. m., long after its usual quitting time.

Democratic Leader Lucas, Ill., called a halt because, he said, long hours put too much strain on 81-year-old Sen. McKellar (R) Tenn., appropriations committee chairman.

McKellar In Seat

McKellar has been in his seat throughout the sessions since the senate began debate on the world's largest appropriations bill on July 11.

An amendment adopted Thursday would reduce most non-military items in the measure by ten

120 Shopping Days Until Christmas

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—(INS)—There are only 120 shopping days until Christmas but the wholesale sellers and retail store buyers will tell you that the sooner you do your Christmas shopping, the better.

The sellers and buyers at the Merchandise Mart's toy and gift market running its two-week course in Chicago emphasize early shoppers will have a better selection and can take advantage of today's prices.

Wholesalers are telling buyers that there are enough toys and gifts for everyone's Christmas although late shoppers may not get the exact item they want.

Scouts To Aid Old Timers Day

Some of New Castle's outstanding young citizens will be on hand August 16 to help the oldsters enjoy another Old-Timers Day.

A group of Boy Scouts and a group of Girl Scouts plan to be at Cascade Park to aid in every way possible to make this red letter day for the county's older citizens a real success.

The senior Girl Scouts will aid in registering guests and will supply identification tags for all who attend. The tag idea will help old friends who haven't seen each other for many years get together once more.

Errand Service

The Boy Scouts will be on hand for errand duty such as supplying ice water and helping some of the real old-timers to navigate.

The response to many cards sent out by the old-timers committee has been most gratifying to date. Some former residents who now live in Oregon have sent word that they won't be able to make it this year and really regret that they will miss "coming home".

Old-Timers Day was inaugurated in 1907. It has been held every year since that time, and in recent years has grown in importance and numbers, as the founders intended that it would.

The Emery orchestra, a real institution for the big day and the grand march, will be on hand again this year. The usual prizes will be awarded and of course the biggest offer is the chance to meet old friends and enjoy lots of reminiscing.

Buchart Engineering Corporation of York, Pa., will do the architectural work.

Tougher Standards

Percentage Of Rejections Is Higher In Volunteers

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—(INS) The Army predicted today that a larger percentage of men now taking selective service physical examinations will be turned down because army health standards have been toughened since World War II.

Officials said they are not surprised by widespread reports of unusually high rejection rates among volunteers and young men reporting for their draft physicals.

National figures on the situation are not yet available. The Army is making a check to find out precisely how many men are being turned down.

In advance of the tabulation which may be ready in 10 days, officials said current reports of high rejections are no indication that the health of young men has deteriorated suddenly.

Druing World War II health standards were rigidly enforced inthe beginning but gradually were relaxed. Officials compare present health requirements with those of 1941.

Under wartime health standards, 12,135,500 men 18 to 37 years old passed their tests and 5,249,200 were rejected. This accounted for a 30.2 per cetn rejection rate during World War II.

Automatic Price Control Provision Is Thrown Out

By SAM FOGG
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4—The House today threw out the "automatic" price-and-wage ceiling provisions which President Truman had warned he would disapprove, and voted to start afresh on emergency economic control legislation.

By a teller vote of 172 to 161, a sharply amended administration measure was rejected.

Thus the House reversed the tentative approval given the bill yesterday.

Piecemeal Amendment

It was pointed out that the reversal leaves the administration bill open to a Republican attempt to amend it piecemeal.

Administration leaders had been reported ready to accept the amended legislation, even though Mr. Truman made it plain that he objected to the provision which would shove prices and wages back to pre-Korean war figures if living costs were to rise five per cent above June 15 levels.

Administration spokesman said they believed the objectionable amendments could have been eliminated by a Senate-House conference committee.

Republicans were virtually unanimous in wanting to start all over again.

The House action probably will delay a final vote on the Control Bill until some time next week.

counter moves to hit enemy concentrations north of the 38th parallel in Red Korea.

Guerrilla Instructions

MacArthur's headquarters viewed most seriously a Pyongyang radio broadcast saying that if the North Koreans could hold until August 1 they would have reinforcements which would assure victory. The enemy broadcast was made last week.

One headquarters official commented:

"These broadcasts actually are instructions to guerrilla forces in South Korea."

Officials at Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker's headquarters in Korea believe that United Nations forces have gained some time through their massive withdrawal across the Naktong river.

But they also know that the Reds are once again mustering more manpower to press a new offensive.

The withdrawal gave American and South Korean forces the best defensive line they have yet had by presenting a nearly continuous front to an enemy who until now has been able to use overwhelming manpower to walk around defense lines without opposition.

By executing the withdrawal across the Naktong Walker traded space, which it was doubtful he could hold, for time and for a continuous line.

First evidence of the new mobility Walker won was his shifting of the 25th Infantry Division from the northern front to the southern front east of Chinju which the battered 24th Division had been holding several days.

This shift, which swung the 25th from the right to the left flank of the First Cavalry Division came just in time to meet a Communist attack in four-battalion strength in the Chinju sector. The Reds tried for six hours to break through and finally retired at 6 a.m. Friday leaving an estimated 600 dead on the battlefield.

AGED WOMAN DIES; POLICE INQUIRE

Gibson to appear at the inquest, commented that Miss Ayres' death was "bizarre."

Also ordered to appear was Dr. Frank C. Genovese, who signed the death certificate, but who explained that he did not actually examine Miss Ayres or prescribe treatment. He said he was called in By Dr. Gibson, who was carring for the aged spinster, and that when he tried to withdraw because he did not even know what treatment Dr. Gibson was using, Dr. Gibson persuaded him not to.

Officials quoted Dr. Gibson as saying he ordered Miss Ayers body sent to the Yale University medical school the day after her death July 26 because she requested that it be used for research. But an examination of her will has not disclosed such a request.

Dr. Gibson, a Lieutenant Commander in the Navy during the war, was divorced two months ago. He was to have been married at 5 o'clock yesterday to Mrs. Anna S. Wetmore, 40 who has been his nurse for the past six years. Her husband, Frank, 42, a garage mechanic, died April 9, 1948, in Danbury hospital, after Dr. Gibson performed an abdominal operation on him.

Upon passing the examination, the men slated for service will be given 21 days to close out personal affairs before reporting at the designated training camp.

The army said the 62,000 men "would be called up with or without their consent from both the volunteer and inactive reserves."

The army announced:

"Priority will be determined by the number of dependents of the individual reservists. Those with no dependents will be called up first, those with one dependent second, and those with more than one dependent, last."

measure, the President would have been directed to roll back such prices and wages as he found to be materially boosting living costs to a figure based on the period May 24-June 24.

Invitation To Increase

Mr. Truman told his Thursday news conference that the provision is an invitation to an increase in all prices and an inflationary spiral.

The president said he will not permit that if he can help it.

The House, however, ignored the threat of a veto and tentatively approved the economic controls bill.

The amendment to whch Mr. Truman takes exception was proposed by Rep. McKinnon (D) Calif. It was approved by a voice when administration floor leaders were caught flat-footed.

Whittled away from the less-stringent administration bill Thursday were provisions which would:

1. Give the president authority to control speculation on the commodity exchanges.

2. Set the expiration date of his emergency control powers as of June 30, 1952. (The House set the date as March 31, 1951).

3. Give the president power to set up machinery to handle labor disputes in defense industries.

Piecemeal Amendment

If the amended administration bill is defeated, the original administration measure then becomes open to piecemeal amendment by the Republicans.

The altered administration bill was approved by the House late Thursday on a tentative basis by a 159 to 128 vote. This gives administration supporters only a 31-vote margin of which to operate.

They defeated by a two-vote margin of which to operate.

They defeated by a two-vote margin a GOP move to sharply curtail the powers the president asked to control consumer credit, including that for real estate.

By approving the substitute administration bill, Democrats averted an immediate vote on a Republican proposal which would give the president stand-by price and wage control powers. The GOP measure would restrict the immediate allocation and credit control authority asked by Mr. Truman to meet with defense needs and curb the danger of inflation.

per cent. The saving, once estimated at 800 million dollars, was reduced to 552 millions when the senate approved an amendment to exempt the two billion, 450 million dollar Marshall plan allotment from any reduction.

The senate also had a new vote on the 100 million dollar loan to Spain which was approved Tuesday.

Sen. Kilgore (D) W. Va., moved for reconsideration of the Spanish loan. His motion lost, 65 to 15.

Lucas, referring to criticism of the loan by President Truman, said that he was a "realist" and "I know when I'm licked."

The majority leader stated that Sen. McCarran (D) Nev., "had the votes to cut Spain into the Marshall plan for 100 million dollars." Lucas pointed out that he recommended the compromise which would give Spain the 100 million dollar loan outside of the Marshall plan.

Although it is still unlawful to turn at any time on Mill street off of East Washington, turns are being made daily by motorists who narrowly miss pedestrians who are not expecting cars to turn at the intersection. Not all of the cars are from out of town either. Some of the motorists have their license numbers taken by alert officers and in due time pay for their offense.

Removal of old placards and signs from area utility poles would go a long way in beautifying the city and surrounding territory. The signs are erected directing motorists to various functions, but the individuals placing them fail to return to remove them. Some are outdated by a year ago and do not enhance the city in the least.

Dilworth Believes Ruling Will Stand

DuSHORE, Pa., Aug. 4—(INS)—The State supreme court will uphold the Allegheny county court's decision denying Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti's demand to supersede the district attorney in Pittsburgh's "free work" probe, Richardson Dilworth predicted last night.

The Democratic gubernatorial nominee told a gathering in the public square at DuShore that it was significant that the Allegheny court was unanimous in its action, and that two of the three judges were Republicans.

The court ruling stemmed from an appeal by Allegheny County District Attorney William S. Rahauser from Margiotti's writ of supersedeas. The writ, in effect, would have shifted authority to Margiotti from Rahauser to investigate charges that Pittsburgh city councilmen used city employes for private work.

"Because of its constitution, the opinion of the Allegheny court is highly significant," Dilworth said. "It stated that Mr. Margiotti had abused his authority in the action he has taken in Allegheny county."

"Professional political henchmen like Margiotti never have the remotest understanding of democracy or the ways of democracy," Dilworth said and added:

"The crude manner in which Margiotti was appointed by Governor Duff to the highest legal office in the State of Pennsylvania for the sole purpose of gaining control of the political machinery of Allegheny county suffered the fate it so richly deserved."

"I am sure that Margiotti will receive the same kind of stinging rebuke from our State supreme court."

FUNERAL HOME
There are funeral homes, and then there are places to hold funerals. We have had people tell us, quite often lately, what a quiet place we have for holding funerals, no big trucks, buses or anything to annoy one when they have something serious on their minds. Again, we have beautiful surroundings, which all make a quiet, beautiful place for holding funerals. Our own drives, and our own parking spaces, are wonderful assets, and as a fellow funeral director from out of town stated to us, it was ideal and perfect for a funeral home.

BEHIND THE FRONT

There must have been an immediate resurgence of hope for the outnumbered and harrassed U. S. infantry units in Korea when the first elements of support "fresh from the states" arrived at Pusan. To a soldier in the lines the "states" assumes a stature that it never did before. An infantryman in a foxhole feels his homeland is sort of a pandora's box out of which comes all sorts of good things, such as plenty of weapons and plenty of replacements.

Unfortunately, the new troops arriving for the Korean fray can hardly be classed as replacements, since they will replace empty gaps in the front lines and not weary troops. Even with the addition of the new units and their equipment the numerical ratio of American and Communist troops is far out of balance. Best estimates are that the Reds hold a four to one edge, even though their losses in men have been unbelievably high.

The battle along the spiny ridges and in the defiles of southern Korea now focuses behind the front. The headlines carry only the story of the front, but the place to watch is the buildup area near the supply port of Pusan. Here the eventual climax of the battle will be decided.

Hampered by long, thin supply lines the American troops have their work cut out for them even in fighting delaying actions. The slow cutting off of Communist supply arteries, which is the responsibility of the strategic air force units, is yet to be reflected in the Communist ability to field their numerous tanks and self propelled vehicles, or cut into their supply of ammunitions. From all reports, Red fire power is still terrific.

But there is room for hope. New forces have landed, among them veterans of World War II infantry fighting. The supply dumps north and west of Pusan are growing. As the lines shorten the American position becomes a tougher and tougher nut to crack.

ANOTHER FARM PLAN

One thing can be said for the new farm relief plan that has just been published, though without endorsement, by the agricultural committee of the National Planning Association. If written into law, it would not look quite as absurd to consumers as the present scheme does.

As things are now, the government pays for its farm program out of general tax receipts. It uses public money to buy up such crops as potatoes, for example, in order to keep up the market price paid by consumers. The potatoes thus purchased may be sold at a tiny fraction of the government's outlay, or even destroyed; either way, it goes against the grain. But what makes the average citizen fume is the thought that his taxes are being used to make him pay artificially high prices for his food.

Apparently the new proposal would introduce a different system if Congress should adopt it. It calls for government-guaranteed prices based on the best estimates of future supply and demand. This "forward-pricing" mechanism would include direct payments to farmers if market prices fell below the government-set prices. But if prices were higher, farmers would be especially taxed and the money would be set aside to meet the cost of the subsidy.

Perhaps the result would be of no great practical importance—except that the NPA plan would remove an open-to criticism part of the present system. Certainly it would still provide for large-scale government interference on behalf of the farmers.

It would call for subsidies, which farmers do not like. Whether it would do what any plan of this kind ought to do in order to pass muster—encourage farmers to produce abundant supplies but not gluts of what the public wants—is not clear.

It's good to note, though that the need for something better is pretty generally understood—by farmers and their best friends as well as by the customers who buy what the farms produce.

SO THIS IS IT?

The United Nations Security Council has convened at the behest of Jacob A. Malik, Soviet representative, who will preside as president this month. There is little doubt as to the motive which prompted Moscow to end its boycott begun last January 13.

Russia is coming back for one purpose—to try to obtain admission to the council for Communist China and thus to bolster her own strength in that organization. The Soviet's secondary proposal for considering "a peaceful solution of the Korean question" is pure camouflage. It is designed to lull the unthinking into the belief that Russia stands as an advocate of peace and is ready to discuss the matter in open meeting.

Until the Soviet orders its satellites in Korea to lay down their arms and withdraw to their old location north of the 38th parallel, consideration of Red China's claims to preference is out of the question. The United States cannot be thus easily blackmailed into surrender.

Americans are told higher taxes are on the way. Well, they always have been.

Bananas were first imported to this country 80 years ago. What pedestrians slipped on before that isn't stated.

In View Of News Of The World

By J. C. OESTREICHER, INS Foreign Director

The sad fact that modern mechanization has taken much of the drama and oratorical splendor out of international meetings was apparent today in the wake of Soviet Russia's return to the United Nations security council.

It is a fair assumption what everyone who had access to a television set saw and heard at least a part of Tuesdays session when Jacob A. Malik, seated as president for August, was voted down on his demand for the exclusion of Nationalist China.

The session was tense enough and held elements of suspense both for participants and spectators.

But the system of virtually instantaneous translation, first used at the Nuernberg war crime trials, gave the proceedings a cut and dried aspect when compared, for example, with some of the historic sessions of the old League of Nations.

The language spoken usually was French and translations came at conclusion of the days' work. Delegates who needed them had their own translators who made rapid notes as the speaker went along, rarely interrupted and sometimes swaying the whole chamber with the force of his personality.

Astride Briand of France was the oratorical ringmaster in those days.

As he spoke, this small man with a shaggy mane of white hair, seemed to gorw in stature with each peroration.

Even those who understood French imperfectly were captivated by the sincerity of his voice and the intensity of his emotion.

Briand knew his power, of course, and he knew also that it was transitory. A hard-headed realist as most Frenhcmen are, he realized that while he might have the league with him at the end of a difficult day, he might well find it hostile when he arrived for the ensuing session.

The late Sir Austen Chamberlain of Great Britain, half-brother of Neville of umbrella and Munich, was another powerful voice. His clipped phraseology and cold logic always commanded unbroken attention.

Those were the days, of course, when expressions like "terminological inexactitude" were used to characterize a falsehood.

Perhaps the urgency of the times has done away with the art of practiced oratory.

Certainly there was little polish in Malik's utterance—in translated form anyway—although he must be given credit for the brief flash of dour humor. That was when Tingfu S. Tsiang of Nationalist China called his regime an elected government and Malik told him what he really meant was "ejected".

Tsiang himself was under the obvious stress of great emotion.

Highly-educated and ordinarily suave in the traditional Oriental way, Tsiang called Malik's attitude on China one of "ignorance". It is obvious from the context of his address that he meant "ignorance of the situation".

Without this qualifying phrase, the statement had an undiplomatic ring.

It is perhaps surprising, however, in view of the explosive matters under consideration that the opening session was comparatively decorous.

Fond recollections of the great days of the League of Nations should embrace also the ill-mannered closing days before the league collapsed.

Italian attacks on Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia lost all semblance of dignity. The Germans grew arrogant and the Japanese impolite in the extreme.

After all, the United Nations is now five years old. Many of the council and assembly members have spent many days together in long and sometimes futile discussions. Soviet walkouts, vetos and Andrei Vishinsky's blusters on occasion have been far more than enough to fray the calmest of

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

PROBLEM DAUGHTER NEEDS HELP

Many parents discover that the son or daughter entering the teens or soon thereafter seems suddenly to become a different person, and that the ways of managing this youth which used to work so well, no longer work. This youth has rather suddenly grown up while the parents haven't changed in their parental attitudes and ways.

"Dear Dr. Myers. My daughter who is now fifteen years of age, about a year ago suddenly became a different person. She was a most lovable child and was also most obedient. Now she rebels at any correction, goes into tantrums if I object to anything she wants to do, uses ugly language to me, tells me she hates me and oh, so many things to break a mother's heart.

"She is the best in her music class. She made the highest average in her grade but she's partly boy crazy, thinks she should be allowed to date when she pleases and whom she pleases. And especially one boy her father and I do not approve of. She tells us falsehoods to slip around and see him. All in all we have become a miserable family. I have an older daughter who is now married, and she and I never had a cross word. She was perfectly obedient in every way and I gave her the love and understanding that I want to give this one. My husband has been sick all of her (my young daughter's) life. Could this be the cause? How should I deal with this situation?"

More Anxious

I wrote this mother: No doubt your husband's illness does cause him to be more anxious and less unbending toward the daughter. The fact that your older daughter gave you no trouble in earlier years and her closeness to you now could also be factors. She may incline to be critical to you about the younger sister, even to the sister face to face.

Naturally your control and emotional hold on the younger daughter which seemed to work up until recently, were held too tightly and she seems not to have enjoyed gradual development in self-management and responsibility. Her normal flare of interest in boys has made it hard for her to conform to your requirements.

Specific Advice

It's not easy for me to give you specific advice. But I'm sure you need to consider all the possible safe ways in which this daughter can enjoy more freedoms. Consider first those freedoms not related to the opposite sex. Try to find ways of helping her feel herself an important member of the family group in conversation, in purchase of her own clothes and furniture, in other spending of the family income. Express appreciation, you and Dad, of her music achievement and of her slighest help about the home and show of consideration of other persons there. While you might be able to hold her to a reasonable frequency of dates and reasonable time for returning home at night you hardly can keep her from seeing any boy she really wants to see. You should do your best to avoid too great temptations in her to deceive you.

Consider, too, the grounds on which you and Dad disapprove this particular boy. Anyway, quit acting "mad" and saying ugly things about him. Attract many other boys and girls to your home and try to set the stage so she might choose some other boy friends.

It might help you and Dad to pray the prayer for parent I once wrote for myself. (To be had by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me at 235 East 45th street, New York, N. Y.)

Leopold had a shorter run than Stromboli and he had better publicity.

He was the first King in recent years to be invited to return home. . . Then he learned he was just expected to pick up some clean shirts.

But thank goodness he quit peaceably and so fast that even we didn't have time to get into it.

Leopold was accused of being too friendly with the Nazis . . So, of course, was Stalin until he got kicked in the smock, which by some strange mental process made him our chum.

We are paying the continuing installments on that friendship bill.

But we all have our troubles. . . There's Prince Baudouin stuck with a throne at an age when so many of our young men are free to go anywhere their local boards will let them.

TESTING THE TEMPERATURE

Washington Calling

(By Marquis Childs)

Permanent Mission Needed

LAKE SUCCESS, Aug. 4.—Beyond the tactical maneuvering in this bitter game of chess is an avenue of hope. It is the hope of a United Nations become a truly functional body to preserve the peace of the world.

The potential is here and now in the plans and intentions of the United States and the other non-commuist powers. The aggression in Korea has forced some thinking and some planning outside the groove of veto and defeatism in which the U. N. was stalled.

A bold plan for action has been worked out by the United States. If the tactical maneuvering over Korea and communist China does not get in the way, it will be presented at once. This plan is for nothing less than a permanent U. N. commission empowered to inquire into aggression, threatened or real, direct, or indirect, wherever it may be.

May Be Answer

Such a commission may well be the answer to the danger of minor wars breaking out at a half-dozen tension points in various corners of the globe. These tension points—Iran, Indo-China, Yugoslavia, Greece—would all come under the U. N. umbrella. Expert observers would be on the scene before any real trouble occurred to determine the source of aggression.

Such an over-all commission would follow the pattern of the U. N. commissions for observation sent to Greece and Korea. It would have broad powers and permanent status. Such a commission could be compared to a fire alarm system, sensitive to the first whiff of smoke.

In recent discussions in the state department and in the United States delegation to the U. N. it was debated whether this should not be made the first order of business here. But on the advice of Ambassador Alexander Kirk in Moscow it was decided to hold it up at least temporarily. Korea, it was felt, should take precedence in the duel with Russia delegate Jacob Malik.

Malik Would Veto

No one has any illusion about what will happen when this plan for a permanent commission is put forward. If Russia is still sitting in the security council, Malik will once again use the veto.

But then the way will be open to go to the general assembly of the U. N., and the assembly meets next month. There is little doubt that such a plan for a permanent fire alarm system would be approved by the assembly.

The belief here is that the United States could expect the support of those nations that have clung to a concept of neutrality. India, for example, supported the Korean commission and an Indian observer was a member of that commission. India could play a vital role on a permanent commission with broad powers to report on threats to the peace well in advance of any shooting.

Korea has been an eye-opener for many of the neutrals. The Swedish U. N. delegate, Sven Grafstrom, is urging a permanent U. N. military force. Other member states, conspicuously Canada, have been discussing such a possibility ever since General MacArthur assumed the command of Americans and South Koreans in the name of the United Nations.

Permanent Force

Such a permanent force made up of soldiers, sailors and airmen from all the member states is a strong probability. It would be the fire-fighting apparatus ready to go into action if and when the permanent commission of inquiry should sound a three-alarm call. This is exactly what was envisioned before the slow strangulation of the veto began to squeeze the life out of the U. N.

The veto, or a threat of it, kept military committees in long and futile months of discussion. The Soviet Union did not want a U. N. military force in being.

The hope in this new line of bold planning for action has one big question before it. Is there time enough? And, one must add, time enough in view of the defenselessness of the whole western world.

The free nations have waited so long. They have waited until what seemed almost hopeless paralysis had settled in. There is only one virtue in the length of this waiting period—it is proof, if proof were needed, that the free world was willing to believe nearly to the point of self-destruction in Russia's protestations of peace and cooperation.

Members of the American delegation are now canvassing for support for the new commission. Some delegates feel it would have too much authority. This can be an end or a beginning, and there are many here who feel it is the latter.

BURIED TALENT

He was clever enough; he had courage and skill,
But to put them to work he used
wish for the will.
"Ive a theme for a book," oft he said, "and I vow
I'll write it some day, but I can't do it now."

He'd tell us the plot for a play
he'd conceived
And it would have succeeded we firmly believed.
But the years flew along, and he came to life's end
And his dramas died, too, for they hadn't been penned.

Hard work is the answer! Vain, talent and theme
If he who should use them does nothing but dream.
And down to the grave, when his spirit took flight,
Went the books and the plays he'd intended to write.

The Robin Hood Concept (2)

(By HOLMES ALEXANDER)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 4.—Prime Minister Nehru's proposal to mediate peace in Korea isn't the only peace plan being hawked around Washington. My phone rang the other day, and an eager voice said: "Mr. Alexander, I have the biggest story in the world for you. May I come in and talk?" Five minutes later Robert Rosamond of Philadelphia, aged 30, arrived with a bulging briefcase which was soon revealed as a global horn of plenty. The proposition he peddled went like this:

1. Let Vice President Barkley, an amiable fellow, penetrate the Iron Curtain and offer Stalin a mutual disarmament plan.

2. Let us then press for "the unconditional surrender of poverty, disease and ignorance and for the freedom of mankind." This campaign, needless to say, would be waged with a trillion or more American dollars, for "UNRRA, the European Recovery Program and a whittled Point Four was our puny response to this challenge" between 1945-50. In brief, a lack of American generosity has caused "our failure to wage total peace."

Except that it was updated to take in the Korean War, Rosamond's proposal is not a new one. He has been going the rounds with it for several years and gained some favorable reference by sentimental columnists who personalize him as Youth's Quest for World Peace.

Now, I know that it's customary to encourage and applaud youths with idealistic plans to save mankind. But as an ex-youth who was not guiltless in that respect, I propose that we stop humoring these well-meaning but impractical fledglings. Too many roads we travel today were paved with the good intentions of flabby thinkers. In Rosamond's home town there is another youngish man, Harry Gold, who thought he was doing mankind a favor by slipping atomic secrets to the Russians. This is a time, if there ever was one, to separate the intellectual men from the boys. It is no kindness to Rosamond or his generation to praise an idea with so much hair down over its eyes and so little on its chest.

For the argument that America has done too little rather than too much, to feed clothe and rehabilitate the world is pretty hard to take at this point. Such talk harks back, I'm afraid, to the Robin Hood concept of government which has characterized our domestic and foreign policies for much too long. To take from the rich and give to the poor is an idea that has always been favored by romantic, immature thinkers. They conceive somehow that there is some virtue in levelling out the world's wealth by artificial means. Just why the poor or unsuccessful people could run the world better than the well-off or successful ones has never been explained. The romantic thinkers never seem to perceive that the Robin Hood concept is an act of aggression in itself, and that it is entirely at odds with the much higher idealism of lawful opportunity.

In international politics Robin Hoodism always assumes that a successful nation (even our own) is ungenerous and wicked, whereas there is much to excuse the havenot nations for both failure and vice. Carry this idea to its logical extent, and you find the proposition that the best way to spread international virtue is to spread international wealth. Yet it is elemental knowledge that the division of American riches all around the globe would not create a situation of equal wealth. It would create a situation of equal poverty. The Russian Revolution was the greatest Robin Hood raid in history.

The Korean War, among other things, has rung a solemn knell on empty idealism. The embattled peninsula is a capsule example of how not to stay alive in the world today. First we idealistically invited Russia to occupy the northern half, and then we idealistically practiced disarmament in the southern half. All our good intentions did not make a peace-loving neighbor in North Korea nor a self-reliant Republic in South Korea. Nor did our repeated use of the United Nations as a mouthpiece forestall the Communist invasion. American armed intervention was the one realistic thing that happened there. It remains the one thing which may dissuade Russia from further conquest.

A young man of 30, which isn't so young anyhow, shouldn't be praised for simply being naive. Rosamond has figures to show how much money we could save by disarmament, and how far this would go toward remaking a peaceful world. But that is like saying that we could save the expenditures on policemen, firemen and physicians if we didn't have crime, fire and disease. You don't deliver mankind from these disasters by eliminating the cops, fire fighters and doctors. It is pleasant to think that some day the Veep can pay a call on Stalin and talk over plans to do away with arms and armies. But right now the best chance of avoiding World War III is to make sure that we're able to win it. And the best victory insurance is not to be everybody's equal in strength and wealth—but everybody's superior.

"Is you is or is you ain't?"

I think it was the late Bert Williams who coined that phrase.

At any rate, I often think of it—in connection with women's dress and men's as well; in architecture; in food and many other things.

Let me illustrate.

I just had lunch in a Maine hotel.

All around me I saw typical New England faces—rather stern faces, honest faces, conscientious faces, substantial faces.

But the room—in which I had New England boiled dinner for lunch—was called the Egyptian Room.

The "decor," as the decorators call it, was bizarre. On the wall facing me was one of those Egyptian bas-relief paintings. It showed two Nile maidens carrying a dead bull hanging upside down on two poles. They were very pretty maidens—pretty in an Egyptian sort of way—the kind to whom a man would almost give his seat in a crowded New York subway train. If not, he would at least try to flirt with them.

But impoliteness is apparently not a native product of New York City. It must have flourished in old Egypt.

Behind those two heavily laden maidens blithely walked a young Egyptian swain. By his looks he might have been their brother.

He did not pay the slightest attention to the two bull-carriers, nor did he assist them in toting their heavy burden.

He just walked along with a stick in his hand and a smile on his face.

The other walls of the room were similarly decorated and Egyptian hieroglyphics apparently explained the meaning of the pictures.

In the morning we had had our breakfast in the Coffee Shop of the same hotel.

Only it wasn't called the Coffee Shop but the Danish Room.

A waitress with a delightful Irish brogue took our order. She was dressed in what is supposed to be the typical Danish peasant costume.

I asked her how she liked it. She hated it, she said.

I was thinking of Bert Williams' "Is you is or is you ain't?"

In our neighborhood in Connecticut—a typical New England neighborhood—a new development is going up.

The houses are very modernistic—radiant heating, built-in television, streamlined kitchens and everything.

The roofs are flat—fine for

The latest story about psychiatry concerns the two eminent practitioners of that new science who were strolling down Park Avenue when a beautiful girl passed by, smiled graciously, and said a cheery "good morning." One psychiatrist frowned and said testily to his companion, "Hmphh! I wonder what she meant by that?"

In Hoboken, a Rutgers professor qualified for the absent-minded championship by forgetting his car was aboard a Forty-second Street ferry, and trundling off aboard a suburban bus. Ten minutes later he frantically dashed back to find the crew towing his car off the ferry, and owners of the vehicles stalled behind it airing their vocabularies. "Hey, that's my car," cried the professor. A policeman stared at him open-mouthed, tore up a report he was compiling, and called up to the pilot house, "Stop worrying, Captain. Here's the body."

Congress Wants To Give Truman Power, Adjourn

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—(INS)—Chairman Cannon (D) Mo., of the House Appropriations Committee called upon Congress Thursday to "vote President Truman the money and powers he needs and then go home."

Cannon said it would be "ridiculous" for Congress to remain constantly in session after it completed action on emergency measures to contain Communist aggression.

The legislator insisted that there is no reason why Congress cannot adjourn by mid-August.

Cannon asserted in an interview that, by taking this course, "Congress will show its confidence in the President and will reassure the country and the world by its action."

In calling for adjournment sine die, Cannon threw his support behind House Speaker Rayburn (D) Texas., who also favors such action.

Senate Majority Leader Lucas (D) Ill., is urging that Congress hold twice-a-week session after the President's emergency program has been disposed of for as long as the Korean crisis continues.

Cannon stated that his committee will approve the entire 15.5 billion dollars in additional funds requested by the President since the outbreak of the Korean war June 25.

The emergency appropriations measure will contain 11.5 billion dollars for the armed services and four billions for military aid to non-Communist countries.

The Missourian said he has not yet reached a decision on what course to take on the 100 million dollar fund for Spain approved Tuesday by the Senate.

THE FAMILY SCRAPBOOK

"Working My Fingers to the Bone"

Mrs. Roberts was feeling hurt. Billy didn't seem to appreciate all she did for him. Recently she had been washing twice a week so as he could have a clean shirt every day. And she was always figuring ways of pleasing him with favorite desserts, special treats and new sports equipment.

"Here I am," she complained, "working my fingers to the bone for you, and you don't even want to stay with me. I'm just a household drudge. Why don't you appreciate what your old mother does for you."

Fifteen-year-old Billy was all mixed up. He felt guilty that he wanted to be out with the rest of the kids, angry because his mother made him feel he was a "heel" and generally burdened down with what was expected from him.

Youngsters in their early teens need to feel free to get away from the home nest and be more on their own. To tie them close with over-attention is as damaging as to try, by sheer force, to keep them at home. No one can really appreciate another's "working my fingers to the bone" attitude for this is too heavy an obligation. Its' far more healthy for our growing youngsters to have a chance to carry on their share of the jobs around the house than to feel they're obligated to sacrificing parents.

To me, growing old gracefully has always seemed to be something lovely, dignified, sweet. Growing old is natural. We all face it.

But at the table next to us this noon sat a tired old woman who tried to appear very young.

Hair, obviously dyed, a bright red. Dabs of rouge on her wrinkled cheeks, gobs of lipstick on her mouth. Everything she did to make herself look young emphasized her age.

Why? What for? Do they think are fooling people?

U.P. Youths Aid At Project In The South

Miss Dorothy Craig of 1219 Huron avenue and Miss Helen Dice of Enon Valley have returned from Greene county, Tenn., where they aided 13 youths from other parts of our country in rebuilding the old Zion United Presbyterian church. These young people are contributing their time and effort in this worthwhile project. The work camp was composed of eight young men and seven young women. The local women were in the South for two weeks, being under the direction of the board of Christian education in charge of youth work of the U. P. church. After the group left for home other youths took their places.

U. P. youths from all parts of our country have contributed toward a fund for the short-term camp. The old church at Zion was over 100 years old when it was torn down at the beginning of the summer. Material for the construction has also been donated. Besides rebuilding the church, the campers have led worship services and recreational programs for people of the community. The young people come from the states of New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Illinois, Kansas and Iowa.

West Coast Mobster Held In Chicago

CHICAGO, Aug. 4—(INS)—West Coast mobster Mickey Cohen—seized in a Swank Chicago Hotel Penthouse—snarled his defiance at police early today and said ulcers—not rival gangsters—drove him from California.

But Detectives said the dapper kingpin hoodlum from Los Angeles was arrested last night because "we don't want his body found lying on a street."

Cohen—who once lived in a $16-a-month room on Chicago's West Side—was seized in the $75-a-day penthouse suite at the swank Ambassador East Hotel, where he had registered as "Michael Cain."

He was taken for questioning, "processing" and fingerprinting to police headquarters, where deputy chief of detectives John T. O'Malley told him:

"You're not going to rest in peace or pieces in Chicago. Get out of town. Let them kill you in some country prairie, but not here. Get out before your scar tissue is found in the streets."

Police Capt. Redmond Gibbons said Cohen will be held for a special showup today and then probably released.

Subcommittee Okays Expanded 'Voice' Bill

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—(INS)—A greatly-expanded "Voice of America" program aimed at breaking through the iron curtain is reported today to have won approval by a House Appropriations subcommittee.

Congressional sources stated that the subcommittee, headed by Rep. Rooney (D) N. Y., has endorsed in full the $48,890,000 requested by President Truman for expanding America's overseas radio broadcasts.

But the subcommittee is said to have curtailed the remainder of the "Campaign of Truth" planned by the administration to offset Communist propaganda.

The administration has requested 82 million dollars in addition to 36.5 millions previously asked for the 1951 fiscal year which began July 1. Funds said to have been trimmed by the subcommittee would cover programs for the exchange of students, press and publications, libraries and motion pictures.

Queen Elizabeth Is Fifty Today

By FRED DOERFLINGER
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Aug. 4.—(INS)—Queen Elizabeth of England is 50 today but the nation's women are talking about her choice of clothes rather than the fact that she has now "reached middle-age."

British women are genuinely fond of their "commoner" queen with the dazzling smile and gracious manner and hate to see her turn up at public functions in ensembles they consider "do not do her justice."

What the queen of England wears in private may be her own business, but how she dresses in public is of real interest to the women of Britain, who feel she represents them.

Queen Elizabeth has never won a fashion accolate, but on most public occasions she is dressed as a queen is expected to. In her crinolines and jewels at evening appearances she cuts a regal figure.

Some of her outfits of late literally have shocked the fashion conscious—so much so that today the women of Britain make it a point to study her appearance carefully in every published photograph. Some of the comments are rather frank.

Elizabeth herself would make no claim to being a beauty. She looks like the average pretty Englishwoman of her age.

She is only 5 feet, 2 inches in height and for the past ten years, like so many of her subjects, has been unsuccessfully fighting off a home-like plumpness.

The frigate bird is the fastest known. It has been clocked at 261 miles an hour.

Livengood Made New Ruhr Representative

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—(INS)—President Truman on Thursday appointed Charles A. Livengood of Dayton, Wash., to be United States representative on the council of the international authority for the Ruhr.

Livengood, 63, will have the rank of minister. He is now a career man in the state department. He succeeds Henry Parkman of Boston, who resigned July 31.

The international authority for the Ruhr was established under a six-power agreement signed last year for the operation of the Ruhr. Besides the U. S., countries participating in the agreement are the United Kingdom, France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

Crime Doesn't Pay, Costs Thief Money

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 4—(INS)—Here's a crime that cost the thief money.

Syracuse detectives received the report of a theft of $276.64 from a shoe store and arrested a former employe, Edward A. Blum, 25.

Detective Donald Tracey said Blum confessed the theft and turned over $276 in bills, plus a half dollar and two dimes.

Blum told the detectives to "keep the change"—all six cents of it.

NORWAY TO UP DEFENSES

Prasse Named To Huntingdon

George Junior Head To Leave Grove City

HARRISBURG, Aug. 4.—(INS)—Arthur T. Prasse, of Grove City today was named superintendent of the Pennsylvania Industrial school at White Hill.

He replaces the Rev. Eugene S. Keller who resigned his $8,400-a-year post July 1.

Keller was under fire several times during his nine year tenure on charges of mismanagement.

Dauphin county Judge R. E. Woodside, head of the institution's nine-member board of trustees said Prasse will be appointed officially August 16.

Prasse since 1940 has been superintendent of the Pennsylvania George Junior Republic, an institution for boys at Grove City.

For 14 years prior to that he was an official of the Pennsylvania Training school at Morganza.

Woodside said Prasse was introduced to eight board members at a July 19 meeting. He was told at the time that the post was his if he wanted it and Prasse accepted.

When Keller's resignation was announced, Woodside said the 53-year-old outgoing superintendent would be replaced by "someone from outside the institution."

Keller is slated for appointment to another position in the State Welfare Department about September 1.

Clever Playground Work Shown In Craft Display

Hidden talents at times come to light!

In addition to sports, picnics and special events, children of the various city playgrounds have been busy all summer with handicraft work. The results show that there are several potential "artists" in New Castle.

In trraveling up East Washington street stop and view the craft display in the Davis Shoe store window. There you'll find the results of many hours of hard work and fun. Under the direction of competent supervisors these enthusiastic playground participants have produced many unusual and lovely articles.

Figurines Painted

For example, you'll see lanyards, belts, and bracelets cleverly constructed from gimp. Bouquets of flowers might easily be mistaken for the "real thing." The city playgrounds have begun a hobby that has become a pastime of adults as well . . . that of painting figurines. With paint and lacquer applied they take on a china look, making lovely gifts. Jewelry boxes, fruit, figures of people, and animals have been painted in this unique manner.

Cuddly animals and dolls have been made from oilcloth and stockings. Paper "china" plates might easily be hung upon the wall, so realistic do they look with flower decorations and glaze. A decorative centerpiece has been made with a wooden bowl filled with colorful paper flowers. On either side are pairs of crepe paper candlesticks, completing the arrangement. Two horses are pulling a hand-made covered wagon filled with "supplies" of flour, bread and eggs.

You may have been wondering just what does go on at the playgrounds. This unusual window display gives you the opportunity to find out a part of the activities that are enjoyed by the children. In fact, after viewing this work, you wonder just where all the ideas come from and how there is such an abundance of patience to do this handicraft.

Year's Winners

Those having winning entries in this year's dsiplay include Betty Cimini of the Croton playground; William White, Harbor; Fred Bloise, Laurel; and Chloe Eagleson, Shenango.

Fifteen playgrounds may be found in the city of New Castle—Washington, Laurel, Big Run, Mahoning, Farrell, Gaston Park, Pollock, Rose Avenue, West Side, Croton Avenue, Harbor Street, Dean Park, Shenango, Cascade Park, and Falcon. These grounds touch each part of the city, giving any child an opportunity to participate in the activities that are carried on each day.

A Frenchman claims to have the longest mustache in the world —a 22-inch hirsute handlebar. We wouldn't know what use it could be unless he plans a career of tickling people on crowded elevators.

Last Flight

AN AIR FORCE plane which crashed into Sagami gulf, 80 miles south of Tokyo, with 25 aboard, was piloted by Capt. L. N. McCurdy (above), 33, of Chicago. Four war correspondents are believed among the 25 missing. (International)

Librarian Returns From Convention

Miss Alice Sterling, librarian at the public library, recently returned from attending the conference of the American Library Association in Cleveland. She reports that a crowded schedule of meetings kept over 4,000 librarians from all over the country busy.

Among the outstanding events was an address by Dr. Brooks Emeny, uresident of the Foreign Policy Association, on America's hour of decision. The defunct U. S. Information Service library in Prague, Czechoslovakia won the association's letter award for outstanding service. The Newbury award for the most outstanding book of the year in the field of children's literature was given to Margaret de Angeli for her book "Door in the Wall". The Caldecott medal for the best illustfated volume went to Leo Politi of Los Angeles for his book "Song of the Swallows", both of which are in the public library.

A three-year survey report given at the conference shows that a quarter of the population, or about 35,000,000 people, have no library service of any character. The remedy suggested is to federate libraries within a state, thus eliminating most of the very impoverished and almost useless local systems now existing.

Library Receives New Publications

Some fine publications have recently come to the public library as memorial books. These acquisitions are made possible by a gift of money from any individual who wishes to honor a deceased friend or relative. A special bookplate is pasted into each one of these books stating by whom and to whose memory the book is given.

Your Dream Home, by Hubbard Cobb. How to build it for less than $5,000.

Harvey Cushing, surgeon, author, artist, by E. H. Thompson.

Cut and Engraved Glass, by Dorothy Daniel.

Europe and the United States, by Vera M. Dean. Clear, simple survey of political ideas and ideals.

Going to Jerusalem, by Willie S. Ethridge. More than just entertainment.

Early American Wooden Ware, by Mary E. Gould. Authoritative history, with many pictures.

My 66 Years in the Big Leagues, by Connie Mack. Great story of American baseball.

The Grammar of Conducting, by Max Rudolf. Gives the student an insight into the craftsmanship of the masters.

Orchids and How to Grow Them, by A. H. Willoughby.

Air Observer Rosters Named

Two Posts Ready With Full Crews

Two of five Lawrence county air lookout posts have full crews ready for emergency work, according to civilian defense coordinator Judge W. Walter Braham.

The observer posts with full crews are Post One—New Castle, and Post Two—Ellwood City. The other three observing stations are Harlansburg, Bessemer and New Wilmington.

Each post is organized with a crew of 20 that includes a supervisor and a deputy supervisor. The stations are located so that the sky is easily visible in all directions and it is within 15 seconds walking distance from a telephone.

The New Castle post is atop the Union Trust company building. The site of the Ellwood post is on the Joseph A. McCandless property, Hazen avenue.

As soon as all rosters have been filled there will be some test alerts and practice for emergencies.

Fred Alexander, supervisor of the New Castle post, has aligned a veteran crew that served in a similar capacity during World War II. They are as follows:

POLITICAL BEES BUZZING

Political bees are starting to buzz for Court House personnel, probably in preparation for the Fall campaign.

Sheriff Frank Coen returned late Wednesday from a two-day sojourn in Harrisburg. He met many state government officers there and was assured by Governor Duff that the governor and his candidates would visit New Castle during the campaign.

County Commissioner Joseph Travers is in Washington confering with U. S. Senator Francis J. Myers.

Bailey Employes Honored At Outing

Employees of the Bailey Sales and Service, Inc., Bailey's Restaurant and the Bailey Oil company with their families were entertained July 27, at a delightful outing. Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Bailey were hosts at the picnic at their summer home in Sunset Valley, along the Neshannock creek.

Over 100 men, women and children enjoyed games, races and contests in the afternoon. Prizes were awarded the following: Margaret Ann McKnight, Hazel Barkley Wright, Donald Tindall, Mrs. Evelyn Hobel, Mrs. Edith Hahn, Earl Hobel and Henry Tindall, Jr.

Swimming, badminton, and soft ball were also diversions. After a tasty dinner was served, "a country store" was a feature. Technicolor moving pictures of previous parties were shown later.

Mrs. Dorothy Cox, of this city, and Mrs. Charles W. Perelle, of Bryn Mawr, were special guests.

Khachaturian On Pop Program

Among the modern composers represented on the program of the Pop concert to be given by the New Castle' Symphony Orchestra with Anthony Casbero conducting at Taggart Stadium on August 8 at 8:30 will be the Armenian composer Aram Khachaturian. The orchestra will play his "Dance of the Rose Maidens" from the Gayne Ballet.

The compositions of Khachaturian have captured the public's imagination and fancy as only a few other works of the twentieth century have succeeded in doing. The exotic nature of his music is especially noted in the ballet music of "Gayne." In the "Dance of the Rose Maid ns" he reveals his mastery of the orchestra, the drive and power of his rhythms, and the fire and flashing colors of his melodies.

Tickets for the concert are on sale at Fleming Music Center, Donati Music Co., Hammond Music Store and the South Side Music Co. They will also be available at the Stadium the night of the concert. In case of rain the concert will be given August 16. Reservations can be made by calling 1258.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—The tobacco habit got the best of Robert Jackson here. He dislocated his shoulder when throwing away a cigaret butt.

CONVERTIBLE COATS

PARIS—In summer, convertible cars are always the fashion. Paris designers have adopted the idea in clothes, and this year top fashions are "convertible" coats and jackets. On these coats and jackets there's a roof" you can pull up in bad weather. The "roof" is not just a simple hood either. It's a part of the back of the coat. When it's up over the head, it looks rather like a biblical veil-cape. For sunny weather, the "roof" slides back, but it doesn't dangle like a hood. It just manages to add extra fullness to the back of the coat.

LEESBURG, Va.—Residents of this town waited eagerly for announcement of the 1950 census figures, only to learn their population had increased by just one since 1940.

Edwin W. Pauley Recalled For Secret Session Talk

By ROSE McKEE
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Edwin W. Pauley was recalled today to tell puzzled senators who shelved his 1946 recommendations that Russia be "compelled" to back democracy in Korea.

Meanwhile two committees proceeded with a study of immediate Korean war issues by hearing Defense Secretary Louis Johnson and Brig. Gen. W. L. Roberts, American officer who helped to train the South Korean Army.

Johnson will testify when a Senate war investigating subcommittee launches a closed-door study of the military's plans to expand manpower and materiel.

To Hear Roberts

The Senate appropriations committee is to hear Roberts, former head of the U. S. military mission in South Korea. Roberts left Korea 10 days before the war started.

Pauley, a multi-millionaire California oil man, and former reperations ambassador, was summoned to a closed session of the armed services committee Monday at the request of Sen. Morse (R) Ore.

Morse said he wanted to find out what Pauley's testimony Thursday "is all about."

There was speculation in some that Pauley's appearance might reflect a feud building up within the administration.

Pauley made poblic recommendations he sent to the president in June, 1946, after his visit to North Korea as Japanese reparations ambassador.

He recommended that Russia be "compelled" to comply with the Moscow declaration for the establishment of a representative provisional government in all Korea.

Mr. Truman passed these recommendations on to then Acting Secretary of State Acheson in a curt note in which he termed the proposals "interesting."

RUSSIA TO BE BRANDED WITH WAR GUILT

by the security council of the Korean aggression and tossed aside Malik's stubborn efforts to have the question of communist China's admission to the United Nations and a Soviet peace settlement in Korea included on the agenda.

U. S. Motion Wins

On the question of putting the U. S. motion at top of the agenda, the security council voted in its favor by eight to Russia's lone opposition vote. India and Yugoslavia abstained.

The council next threw off the agenda both items proposed by Malik, leaving only the question of Korean aggression on the book for this afternoon.

Those voting against inclusion of communist China on the agenda were the Untied States, France, China, Ecuador and Cuba. Egypt abstained. In favor were Russia, Britain, Norway, India and Yugoslavia.

Opposed to including the Soviet "peaceful settlement" in Korea were the United States, Britain, France, Norway, Cuba, Ecuador and China. In favor were Russia, Egypt and India. Yugoslavia abstained.

The final vote, which leaves only the Korean aggression on the security council agenda, was a sweeping political victory for the United States and to some extent for Austin personally.

MARINES HALT REDS IN FURIOUS FIGHT; NO ENEMY ADVANCE

were the only North Korean commissioned officers captured alive in the whole Korean conflict.

Other enemy columns farther north pushed within seven miles northwest of Taegu to bring that South Korean provisional capital in range of heavy artillery. Prolonged cannonading already was rocking that area.

More and more reinforcements were being rushed to the shrunken front-lines by both sides after American and South Korean troops completed their withdrawal behind the "no retreat" Naktong river line.

U. S. First Marine Division troops, their carrier-borne planes already in action, and American 2nd Infantry Division units moved to the battle areas to reinforce three U. S. Army and five South Korean divisions now fighting the invaders.

Large masses of Red troops, tanks, artillery and supplies were being funneled through the Taejon junction southward for what may develop into Korea's "battle of the Marne" along the Naktong. That river is the final major natural line defending all-important Pusan on Korea's southeast tip.

Troops Move Up

As the showdown phase of the Korean conflict approached, a new element of the enemy's strengtth appeared far behind the battlelines. American reconnaissance flyers observed large numbers of troops moving by rail from a point 20 miles north of Chongjin southward down the east coast of North Korea.

An intelligence officer at Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Tokyo headquarters expressed belief these troops are not of the regular North Korean army. He said it is suspected the troops are composed of Koreans from Communist China's Manchuria, which lies less than 40 miles from Chongjin.

They are believed to be from a Korean "colony" which has dwelt in Manchuria for many years. Many of the young Koreans of this "colony" have had battle experience in China's Red armies. The intelligence officer said at least 150,000 soldiers could be mustered from among the Koreans in Manchuria.

He promised that action will be taken to stop these new forces before they can reach the South Korean front.

Good weather prevailed generally over Korea Friday and the same condition was predicted for Saturday, favoring new assaults in the allied air offensive designed to halt the flow of enemy reinforcements and materiel to the front.

Against Wall

For the first time in the Korean war the Communist battered their heads against an unyielding American firewall as they opened their thrusts against the Naktong river line. American and South Korean troops lashed back with counterblows to disrupt the enemy movements.

MacArthur's headquarters spokesman said American and South Korean troops, now estimated to number 90,000, uncorked a "series of sharp counter-punches" which have "disorganized enemy forces grouping for attack."

The spokesman declared that, "despite furious and sporadic efforts" by elements of an estimated 100,000 North Korean troops to smash into Masan, western gateway to Pusan and also into Taegu, the enemy "has made no gains in the last 24 hours."

This was the battle front situation up until about noon Friday (10 p. m. Thursday EDT), at which hour a new and heavy battle was raging at Wonbungni, a dozen miles west of Masan, which is 25 miles from Pusan.

Outcome of the Wonbungni engagement still hung in the balance at noon Friday. But the headquarters spokesman said that in the 24-hour period up to that time the enemy hordes had been fought to a standstill in three other major battles along the front, now shortened to some 150 miles.

CRITICAL TRIANGLE

—Acme Telephoto

If Communist troops continue to push United States and South Korean forces toward the southeast corner of the Peninsula, the defenders are expected to make a final stand to hold the Taegu-Pusan-Yosu Triangle, shown cross-hatched on map. The enemy must be kept beyond artillery range of the vital supply and reinforcement beachhead. Arrows show basic goals of Reds' strategy—(1) to smash down the Kumchon-Taegu-Pusan road, with flanking attacks confining the defenders to this narrow corrider, (2) drive from southwest corner across to Pusan, (3) a drive down the east coast toward Pusan, with possible secondary thrust to cut Kumchon-Taegu-Pusan road.

MISSIONARY TEA

The lawn at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Karki was a pretty setting for a tea given by the Ladies Missionary Society of Grace Bible church Tuesday evening. Mrs. Ted Watson opened the business meeting with remarks about the society after which Mrs. Adison Davis conducted devotions. Mrs. Harry Wilkison closed in prayer.

Mrs. George Fissel welcomed the guests and told of the need for missionary work. Mrs. Ben Gardner gave a brief talk on India, its customs and work there. Mrs. Watson gave a brief review of the work being done by the society in view of the fact that only 12 members had told of the work of the society in various countries.

At intervals, Miss Leslie Kalajainen favored with vocal selections accompanying herself on the accordion. Scattered about the lawn were several small tables set for tea and prettily decorated with summer flowers. Each table represented a foreign country and held a display of articles from there, being most compiled of war souveniers and antique keepsakes. Mrs. Earl E. Collins closed in prayer.

Water Formula Contains Oil

LOS ANGELES — (INS) — Sea water plus oil equals fresh water for those sections of the United States which may be threatened by a water famine in the future, in the opinion of Adolph G. Reinhardt, construction expert.

Reinhardt, who recently returned from the desert land of Kuwait, on the Persian gulf, said that the British have licked the problem of supplying fresh water to parched areas.

He reported that a 500,000-gallon-a-day distillation unit to convert sea water into fresh water, using petroleum for fuel, currently is being built in Kuwait.

He said:

"Water in Arabia actually is more expensive than oil. It must be hauled from the Tigres river, 100 miles away. The British have really solved the problem."

OUTDOOR RAMBLES with N. R. CASILLO

PENNSYLVANIA SNAKES

Part 4

There are people in almost every community who will steadfastly maintain that snakes will swallow their young if threatened by an intruder. The reptile most often involved in the controversy is the garter snake. For one reason or another it is this species that is most frequently "observed" performing the unnatural act.

The chances are that such observers saw a specimen of the one or two species of cannibalistic snakes resident to Pennsylvania. Then, later, when the same observer caught and despatched a garter snake in the vicinity, his observation was conclusively corroborated if young snakes emerged from a body wound he had inflicted in killing the reptile.

There are at least two very good reasons why the garter snake is most often observed as the principal actor in this "snake-swallow-young" episode. Foremost is the fact that the two or three species of garter snakes found in Pennsylvania are abundant even in highly populated areas, specimens often being seen in vacant lots located well within the borders of even the larger cities. No less important is the viviparous habit of the snake and the fact that so few people are aware of it.

There are equally good reasons why there is and could be no foundation to what can be termed the most generally authenticated of tall stories. Conclusively, (1) How could the young survive contact with the highly corrosive action of the saliva and other digestive juices? (2) How can a dozen or more young snakes disappear into their mother's maw fast enough to escape destruction from whatever threatened them? (3) Would it not be more expedient and safer for the family to scatter in all directions? (4) Reliable observers and expert scientists have never observed the act.

The common garter snake is familiar to most every one who has tramped our fields and open woodlands. Its stripes of brown and yellow with spots on the sides are distinguishing markings. A large adult seldom exceeds a length of two feet. The ribboned garter snake is more slender and lacks the spots; the stripes, however, are more clearcut and of a lighter hue. When handled both give off a strong unpleasant odor, a trait common to all members of the water snake clan.

There are two diminutive snakes that may be found in the garden, the backyard or even in the cellar. My first encounter with the least abundant of the two was while I was attempting to level a tipped flagstone. Upon lifting the stone the small, brownish reptile attempted to hide in the deepest depression. It was a red-bellied or Storer's snake, its bright red underside contrasting vividly with the brownish upper parts. On the following day I found another curled up in a corner of the garage.

Although DeKay's snake as the other of these little fellows is called, is more abundant I have never encountered it in the vicinity of my home. It too, however, is rather secretive and may round out its life in one's backyard without the householder ever suspecting it. DeKay's snake lacks the red belly of its cousin otherwise they are quite similar. Both are easily tamed and those that I have kept in captivity soon learned to take proffered earthworms.

The green or grass snake is so daintily attractive and docile as to delight nearly all observers, even those who have an aversion to snakes in general. Seldom more than twenty inches long, and of a fresh, leaf-green color it feeds mostly on insects.

I have handled numbers of these little chaps without a single one showing the slightest resentment. Compare this with the reactions resulting from the handling of the most docile four-footed wild creature that you know of.

Steel Shortage Hurts Truck And Auto Production

DETROIT, Aug 4—(INS)—Automotive News, the motor industry's trade paper, reported Thursday that production of new cars and trucks fell off more than 8,000 units this week because of a steel shortage.

The paper said the increasing diversion of critical steel supplies to military production would hold the current week's output by U. M. S. Auto plants to 177,489, compared with the 186,104 vehicles built last week.

The current figure includes 149,845 cars and 27,644 trucks; last week's 156,933 cars and 29,171 trucks.

Automotive News said most U. S. auto plants are expected to maintain relatively high production this month despite the steel shortage, but that schedules will probably have to be trimmed for September.

The trade paper said, however, that "full curtailment of car production is still not in the foreseeable future."

It pointed out that the auto industry would be able to turn out five million cars and trucks a year even if supplies of critical materials, such as steel, were cut by 25 per cent.

The July output of 601,894 passenger cars and 110,171 trucks, a total of 712,065 vehicles, represented an annual rate of seven million units.

Appropriations Bill Finally Scheduled

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—(INS)—The senate pinned itself down Thursday to a voting schedule on the 34.7 billion dollar appropriations bill after debating the huge measure for more than three weeks.

The legislation—largest single money bill in history—carries funds to operate all the vast executive departments and agencies, the federal courts and congress itself.

Senators agreed to hold speeches on pending amendments to five minutes per member. After these are disposed of, the bill in its entirety probably will be passed by voice vote.

An amendment by Sens. Byrd (D) Va., and Bridges (R) N. H., to slash all non-defense items by 10 per cent is the biggest remaining issue. It has been endorsed by 35 senators of both parties.

Three hours of debate each have been set aside for two other amendments:

1. To boost federal funds for campaigns against cancer, heart disease and mental ills from $15,750,000 to $79,750,000.

2. To appropriate 25 million dollars for reconditioning about 134 merchant ships now tied up in the so-called "mothball" fleet.

MOM AND THE COACH

Bud is on the team. He listens to the coach. He would eat nails and drink carbolic acid if the coach so ordered.

Mom knows something too. She has been looking after Bud for some time. She was the guy who got him ready for the team in the first place.

Bud forgets about that.

She knows more about Bud than the coach does. She has been feeding him for quite a while. She washed behind his ears and other places a long time ago.

Mom and the coach should be good friends. They want him to be good in body and mind.

SEATING GUEST-OF-HONOR

Question: Should the guest-of-honor be seated to the right of the host? If the guest is a man, where should he be seated?"

Answer: The woman guest-of-honor is correctly seated to the right of the host. The man guest-of-honor is correctly seated to the right of the hostess. When a bride and groom or an engaged couple are guests-of-honor, they are usually seated side by side.

Question: A friend was married several months ago. At that time, we had so many expenses we were unable to send a gift. The bride recently moved into her new home and as we have always felt bad about not sending a gift at the time of the wedding I wondered if I might bring her something for her new home when I make my first call or should I just let it go?

Answer: By all means, take something to her when you visit her new home. This is the customary procedure when a friend moves into a new house. Your gift should be a picture frame, book ends, ash trays coaster set, lamp bon-bon dish, a luncheon set or some such article.

Question: What is proper for a daughter-in-law to wear at the funeral of her husband's mother?

Answer: She should wear black but not necessarily crepe.

Question: Should wedding announcements be sent to the bridegroom's family?

Answer: They should be sent to all of his friends and relatives who had not witnessed the ceremony. Announcements should not be sent to anyone having witnessed the ceremony.

Present your problems to Miss Markel who will promptly mail personal replies to questions from readers enclosing stamped, self-addressed envelopes.

Police Raid Gaming Place

Seven Arrested Thursday Evening

Lieutenant Rigby, Sergeant Syling and Patrolman Reese at 5:40 p. m. Thursday raided the West Side Shoe Shine,, 115 West Washington street, charging Dominick Vitale with being the proprietor of a gaming place, and six others as visitors to a gambling house.

It was charged by arresting police, a crap game was under way.

Vitale placed a cash forfeit of $200 and each of the visitors put up $10 for appearance in police court.

None appeared this morning but have 10 days time in which to acknowledge or deny their guilt.

Patrolman Reese entered the shoe shine and went to a rear room, the door of which he found locked.

An employe allegedly ran to a "peep hole" to spread an alarm.

Reese pulled him away from the "peep hole".

However, a man in the inner room opened the door part way but Reese forced the door in all the way, seizing some money and dice which allegedly were on a table.

Lieutenant Rigby and Sergeant Syling followed Reese into the place.

The raid resulted from complaints received of alleged gambling there, it is reported.

Ecclesian Pack Has Family Outing

Cub scouts of Ecclesian Pack 50, together with their families enjoyed an outing at Cascade park, on a recent evening.

A basket picnic at 6 o'clock was the main feature of the evening. There followed a program of races and games in which the cubs, den parents, and parents of cubs participated.

Later filmstrips were sown, instructing parents of cubs as to just what cubbing means and how they can cooperate with the den mothers and committee.

Pack 50 plans to participate in the basket picnic at the boy scout camp on August 19, for all the packs in the county. The Court of Awards will be in charge of W. H. Cummings, cubmaster. The Den Champions of Pack 50 will compete with the Den Champions of other Packs in a program of Olympics.

The winning Pack will keep the trophy cup until the picnic next year.

Russian Holding Company Rapidly Ruining Austria

By MARVIN STONE
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

VIENNA, Aug. 4.—For the asking: ham at 15 cents a pound, men's shirts for $1.20 or more rum than two men can drink at one sitting, 45 cents.

With motives that are painfully obvious, Russia is playing Robin Hood to penny-short Viennese today, literally robbing the Austrian government to feed the "poor" at cut-rate prices.

Viennese can buy the ham, or scarce sugar at nine cents a pound at a chain of Russian-owned markets that are cropping up around the city.

Finance Minister Eugen Margaretha said the Russians can do it because "they don't pay a cent in import or trade taxes."

He estimated that their "people's prices" on rum and vodka ($1 a quart), has cost the Austrian schnapps monopoly more than $1,000,000. It cost the government another million in unpaid taxes.

A parliamentary investigation disclosed that 73 per cent of last year's vintage remained unsold largely due to unrestricted wine sales by unlicensed Russian-sponsored importers.

This illegal peddling is causing an ugly stir among Viennese merchants, who are watching their customers queue up in front of the "Usia" stores.

USIA is the administration of Soviet property in Austria, a holding company that controls the 300 Austrian plants Russia grabbed as war booty under the Potsdam agreement.

Because of its "extraterritorial status", USIA is milking Austria dry.

No one knows just how much, or exactly what, flows in and out of Austria through the Soviet zone. Most of it, of course, is the output of the Russian-controlled plants.

These properties are classed as "former German assets". In the other three occupation zones they have been handed back to the Austrians.

Officials call USIA'S transaction a direct loss to Austria and a direct gain to the Soviet Union, apart from any indirect loss suffered by the government from nonpayment of taxes, social insurance contributions and depreciation of machinery.

The gain to Russia will continue until a peace treaty is signed. Then Austria will be empowered to buy back the USIA holdings for $150,000,000.

Meanwhile, there is no incentive to the Russians ever to sign a treaty.

Clear Pusan Streets Every Night At Six

PUSAN, Aug. 4—(INS)—All civilians in the port city of Pusan were ordered off the streets at 6 o'clock tonight.

Soldiers raced through the streets in trucks and jeeps ordering the civilians indoors.

There was no immediate explanation for the sudden curfew order to clear the streets which have been jampacked for many days with refugees impeding traffic.

Traffic clearances appeared to be the main reason for the emergency action which soldiers and Korean police enforced by blaring orders from loudspeakers.

U. S. troops fought desperately to repulse three North Korean divisions hurled into the south coast battle. Heaviest fighting centered around Wonbung-ni (1) as Reds tried to smash into the coastal plains before Pusan (2), vital UN supply port. The 25th Division was rushed down (long thin arrow) from the northwest front to reinforce hard-pressed defenders of Pusan. Other major action was in northwest, where the 1st Cavalry, reinforced by South Korean units, threw back a strong Communist attack near Waewan (3) with heavy losses. The new Naktong river defense line (sawtooth line) was reported broken for the first time when Communist patrols slipped through southwest of Taegu (4) and disappeared behind American lines.

Ohio River Water To Be Examined

HARRISBURG, Aug. 4.—(INS)—The State Sanitary Water Board announced today that an extensive sampling survey to determine quality of water in the Ohio River will be conducted September 18-29.

The project will be directed by the Ohio River Valley Water Sanitation Commisison, the board reported. Eight member states will take part, along with the U.S. Public Health Service, the U.S. Geological Survey and the U.S. Army engineers.

Sampling points in Pennsylvania will be the navigation dams at Midland and Amsworth on the Ohio River; near Eastvale on the Beaver River; near Nadine on the Allegheny River, and five miles below Braddock on the Monongahela River.

Chemical analyses to determine sanitary quality will be made in a mobile laboratory to be used by the State Health Department's Bureau of Engineering.

Other bacteriological, chemical and mineral analyses and phenol determinations will be made by the cooperating agencies, with an aim toward determining anti-pollution progress.

Commisison member-states, in addition to Pennsylvania, are New York, West Virginia, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Kentucky.

Pittsburgh Company Stops Approval Of Gas For New Homes

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 4.—(INS)—The president of the Equitable Gas company said today his firm has stopped approval on applications for gas to heat new homes in the Pittsburgh district.

A. W. Conover explained the move will insure an adequate supply of natural gas for all-out defense production by district industries if the Korean hostilities develop into a national emergency.

Already this year Equitable has approved 14,000 applications for space heating service, which is 31 per cent more than during a like period last year.

Conover said further application approval might harm service to current consumers and added his action was taken in accordance with Public Utility Commission regulations.

Mahoningtown School Reunion

Large Attendance At Silver Jubilee

Twenty five years ago the first first reunion was held of the pupils and teachers of the old brick school, in Mahoningtown, which was destroyed by fire in 1915. The 1950 reunion, as the "Silver Jubilee", met in Mahoning school on Wednesday, August 2, at 2 o'clock, the largest reunion ever held.

Bessie Coates Pitzer, president, gave the address of welcome, and presided afternoon and evening. Devotional period was conducted by Nell Hamilton McClurg.

Communications were read from Clara Sample Neal, Grass Valley, Calif.; W. A. Moore, former principal, now of Boulder, Colo.; Maude Rauscher Bare, Chowchilla, Calif.; Percy Jones, Chicago; Mary Eichbaum Simpson, former teacher, of Bristol, Tenn.

Memorial Service

An impressive memorial service was conducted by the secretary, W. W. McGaughey, Akron, O.; (94 deaths reported since first reunion). Kenneth Jones of Trafford City, Dorothy Fisher, Kotta Stright Bunnell and Marguerite Hartrantt Pitzer have passed on since the 1949 reunion.

Mr. McGaughey, who has served as secretary since 1925, was presented with a gift of appreciation, Ed Witherspoon of Wilkinsburg making the presentation.

Robert Sheehy, Robert Barnes and Chester Johnson served on the nominating committee, and following officers were elected for 1951 reunion: Ed Johnson, president; Ellis Howard, vice-president; W. W. McGaughey, secretary.. Adah Pitzer Pherson, treasurer.

Dinner At 6:30

At 6:30 p. m., 136 sat down to a delicious dinner, served by the Davis Bible class in Mahoning Methodist church. W. W. McCaughey gave the invocation. Pep singing and whistling was led by Clara Locke Campbell, David W. Rees with Alice Matthews McClure at the piano.

Carrie Jeffery Roberts, former ninth grade teacher and assistant principal, gave a humorous talk on school day recollections and their value. Attorney Clarence Patterson of Baltimore was unable to take his part on the program, having been called to Puerto Rico.

Raymond Horchler, in disguise, created much amusement, circulating about during the dinner hour. Every committee was commended for its splendid work. At all other reunions a picnic dinner was enjoyed, but the change to dinner being served by ladies of the church was a decided success. The lovely flowers sent to the school house were from the Horchler gardens.

An impressive closing, singing "Blest Be the Tie That Binds" was led by David W. Rees.

Pittsburgh Profs. Invent New Glass For Atomic Rays

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 4.—(INS)—Five University of Pittsburgh professors Thursday said they have perfected new types of glass, which will protect the eyesight against atomic rays.

Dr. Alexander Silverman explainen the X-ray glass is 50 per cent more effective than any known existing lgass. The other glass is the first to shield the eyes from neutrons, tiny atomic particles which can penetrate lead.

Principal use of the new glasses will be as peep-holes through the safety barriers of atomic reactors.

They were developed by Dr. Silverman, Laben Melnick, Dr. Joseph J. Rothermel, Dr. Kuan Han Sun and Dr. Hurd W. Safford.

Liberia Donates Rubber For War

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Aug. 4.—(INS)—Liberia offered the United Nations Thursday $10,000 in natural rubber for use by U. N. forces in Korea.

Gabriel L. Dennis, liberian secretary of state, declared in response to Secretary General Trygve Lie's appeal for stepped-up aid to U. N. forces that the contribution was within the limited means of the African republic.

He said the rubber will be shipped to U. N. "in the near future".

ATT Guards Against Possible Sabotage

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—(INS)—The American Telephone & Telegraph company said Thursday that measures have been taken to protect communications facilities against possible sabotage in its plants throughout the country.

A spokesman for the Bell system said it would be "unwise" to describe the steps taken by constituent companies. However, he stressed that measures would necessarily differ in various areas of the United States depending upon conditions existing in each locality.

Meantime, the New Jersey Bell Telephone company announced the proposed creation of "anti-sabotage" patrols for around-the-clock guard duty at major telephone centers.

Officials said special attention will be paid to the line's long-distance facilities and wires to police and fire stations.

Emergency bureaus organized previously to provide rapid repair service will act as the foundation of the anti-sabotage patrols.

Wall street in New York got its name from the fact that it was built along the line of the wall built for protection by the early Dutch settlers.

JACOB MALIK (right), Soviet delegate whose return to the Security council as chairman after a 29-week boycott caused a UN sensation, listens, expressionless, as U. S. representative Warren R. Austin (not shown) declares the paramount problem facing the council is Korea, not admission of Communist China. Malik's attempt to oust Nationalist China's Tingfu F. Tsiang from the council was overruled, 8 to 3. At the left is Secretary General Trygve Lie. (International)

District Communist Leader Is Arrested

McKEESPORT, Pa., Aug. 4.—(INS)—McKeesport police arrested the chairman of the western Pennslyvania Communist party Thursday and then city council unanimously passed an anti-communist ordinance.

Officers charged Steve Nelson with disorderly conduct. He appeared in council chambers to argue against passage of legislation which requires communists and subversives to register with the police within five days or receive a 30-day jail sentence or a $100 fine or both.

Spectators booed and hissed Nelson. First officers ejected another man who protested the ruling. He was escorted to the city line.

But police said Nelson became unruly when they attempted to eject him.

Neshannock U.P. Undergoes Repairs

Extensive repairs are being made to the Neshannock United Presbyterian church building. Since Rev. Hugh G. Snodgrass, pastor of that congregation, is on vacation and on account of the improvements being made, there will be no services in the church until August 27. A new basement and redecorating the building are among the improvements.

HAS VACATION IN JAIL

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. — William Ray Honey, 50, spent his summer vacation in jail, at his own request. Sentenced to 15 days in the workhouse for drunken driving, Honey said he would lose seniority from his job if he had to serve the term immediately. So the court permitted him to wait until he got his vacation.

BANKER WIFE TOO MUCH

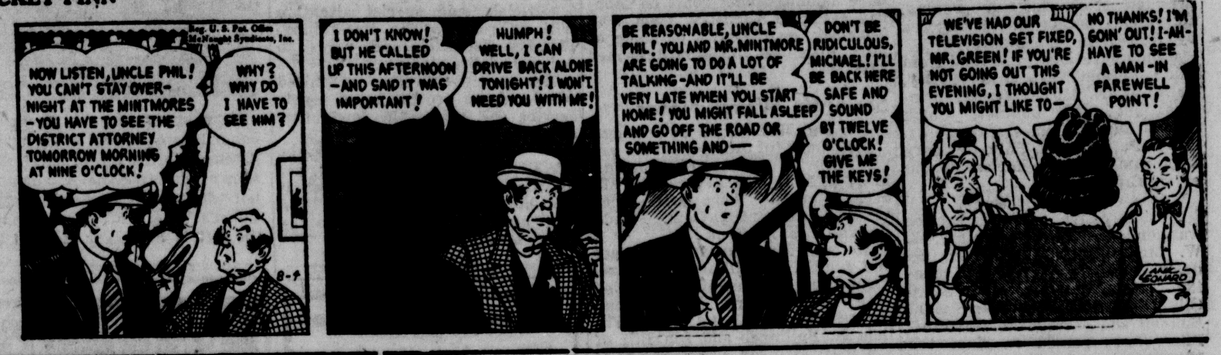

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. — Fred Ogden Weishaupt complained in a divorce suit against his wife, Sarah, that his marriage was just one IOU after another. Weishaupt said his wife took all his earnings and forced him once to pawn his ring to her before she would give him $1 for movie tickets. On another occasion, he said, she made him give her a note on a loan of $4.

CARE, CAUTION URGED FOR SAFETY ON FARM

Appropriate to the observance of Farm Safety Week here are some suggested ways for avoiding some common dangers.

Careless smokers have destroyed many barns. Do not strike matches in the barn. Light the lantern before entering, and if matches must be carried see that they are safety matches that can be ignited only on the box or cover. Provide hooks or wires from which to hang lanterns. Store gasoline and kerosene outside the barn. The tractor might well be kept out of the barn, too. Sparks from fires outside the barn often cause barn fires. Keep ground around barn free from needless litter.

Use a ladder for climbing. Do not use boxes, machinery, or other makeshifts. Climb ladders up to work. Do not carry heavy objects, sharp tools, or bulky materials when climbing—use a rope hoist. Avoid carrying objects, such as nails and screws, in your mouth when climbing. Set ladder firmly on the ground or floor. If it is to be used in one place for some time, tie at the top. Set the ladder at a safe angle—the base should be one-fourth of the ladder's height away from the wall.

The National Safety Council records show that agriculture has more motor vehicle accident-fatalities than any other type of fatal accidents. Farmers suffered 6,500 fatalities and about a quarter of a million injuries with motor vehicles in 1948, the latest year for which complete statistics are available. Nearly one-third of all privately-owned trucks are owned by farmers.

Engineers say that if you keep your truck in good mechanical condition, you reduce the chance for a mishap. Their advise is to have proper lights, good brakes, and a windshield wiper that operates.

TIPS ON PLANNING AND PACKING FOR A TRIP

Women are traveling more and more every year. Some women are experienced travelers; others may be making their first trip this summer. Some suggestions for the beginner are offered on planning and packing for a trip.

Important to planning is to be sure you can manage the trip comfortably on your budget and time. If you are staying at hotels, write or wire ahead for reservations.

Notify in advance the friends you wish to see enroute. Sometimes well-meaning friends ask you to look up the So-and-So's. Upon your arrival call the So-and-So's, suggesting they come for lunch or dinner at your hotel. Obviously, they will then insist upon being the hosts, but without feeling that you have forced them into it. You can take some tips from the expert traveler. She plans her wardrobe as carefully as possible, keeping it to a minimum. She puts her finances in good order and carries traveler's checks on trips of any length. Before leaving she puts in her purse a list of all names and addresses she will need.

When it comes to packing, confine yourself to luggage which, in a pinch, you can carry yourself. For stopovers carry an overnight case with nightgown, slippers, and toilet articles. Or you can pack these articles on the very top of your suitcase.

Put heavy items on the bottom of the suitcase and things first used on top. Carry berets or little soft hats. Put toilet articles in small jars and bottles. Carry some form of identification in your suitcase. Take with you a clothes brush and a mending kit.

SWEET CORN AT ITS BEST FOR SHORT TIME

An ear of sweet corn is at its sweet and succulent best for just a few hours. After a certain degree of maturity is reached the sugar changes rapidly to starch and the corn becomes less sweet, less juicy, and less tender.

Pick sweet corn when it is just right. If you buy corn on the market, select that which is fresh and green. Hurry the corn into the cooking pot as quickly as possible. If you must hold corn for a few hours before cooking, refrigerate it. Lower temperatures help to slow down natural changes.

Use a large kettle with a tight fitting lid for boiling sweet corn. Do not add salt to the water as it toughens the corn. Have enough water to cover all the corn and have it boiling rapidly when you add corn. Cook only until tender; this takes 8 to 10 minutes, depending upon size of ears and stage of maturity. Serve corn at once. A pair of kitchen tongs is handy for lifting corn from boiling water.

Make the most of sweet corn during its brief season. If you tire of it on the cob, try corn fritters, or corn pudding. Both are especially good if you grate the fresh corn from the cob. Use a coarse grater. For unusually delicious corn fritters, try this recipe:

Corn Fritters

3 eggs, separated.

Shelar struck out six West Pittsburgers, passed two and allowed only six hits, while Allegro fanned two, gave 10 hits and passed three.

Monk Rainey was the big noise of the game. He hit two home runs with two aboard on each blow batting in six runs. He also got a single.

West Pittsburg got a three-run lead in the first but the Indies made four in the fourth, which was all they needed to win.

Epworth and First U. P., their closest rivals, both dropped matches. First Presbyterian took Epworth 6½-5½, while St. Paul beat First U. P. 7½-4½, First Methodist first half champions, climbed out of the cellar by taking eight points from First Christian.

Stan Bukowski was medalist for the evening with a 37 on the front-nine. Chuck Rea had a 38 on the back-nine. Other low scores were George Sargent and M. Hofiman 39's on the back-nine and Chapman 40 on the front-nine.

World Swimming Records Broken

TOKYO, Aug. 4.—(INS)—Japan's "Flying Fish," Hironoshin Furahashi, set a new world record for the 200 meter free style swimming distance tonight at 2:08-2/10.

Hawaii's Hiroshi Konno, a Yale student, also bagged a world mark in the first American-Japanese swimming meet since before World War II.

Konno bettered the recognized world record of 18 minutes 44.4 seconds fo rthe 1500 meter free style.

Louis gave up the title on March 1, 1949, after his knockout defense against Jersey Joe Walcott on June 25, 1948.

Senators On Top Today By Three Percentage Points

New Castle's fiery young Senators return today from a triumphant road trip, to receive the accolade of hundreds of fans at Flaherty Memorial Field as they open a three-game series with the troublesome Youngstown Athletics. Game time is 8:30 p. m.

With a break from the weatherman the stands tonight should be filled to capacity for the Senators as they fight to retain their top honors. Oil City defeated Niagara Falls last night 15-6 to stay right on the heels of the high-flying Senators who dusted off Erie twice last night 3-0 and 4-3, the latter in ten innings.

Becka Pitches Heartbreaker One-Hitter

George Becka, Cleveland's contribution to the Senators came within one scratch single by Eddie Kestler in the second inning last night of entering the Middle-Atlantic Hall of Fame, setting the Sailors down very effectively with his "sneaky fast one", for his 11th win against four defeats.

Becka's great pitching stint was warmly applauded by the Erie fans. He walked five and fanned five. He had the Tars handcuffed with horse collars all the way.

Rossman Hurls 10th Win Of Season

Ben "Blooper" Rossman won his 10th victory of the year last night in the night-cap, pitching a steady seven-hit, 10-inning 4-3 win, for the Senators, against Clark Mains, who was touched for 14 blows. Rossman was in serious trouble only twice, the first inning when Erie scored twice to lead, and in the last of the tenth giving up a single and double, but then shut-off the rally with fine pitching.

It was a stunning way for the Senators to end their trips to Erie this year, making a clean series sweep to hold a 9-5 edge in games played to date with the heavy-hitting Tars.

Wagner or Zedalis

It will be either Frank Wagner (10-), or Stan Zedalis (8-8) on the hill for the Senators tonight, it was announced by Manager Chuck Cronin. Youngstown will have have thier two aces, Bob Bassler and Dan Ring, ready to hurl.

The Senators are tied with the Oilers in games back, but lead by thre percentage points .647 to .644. New Castle has won 55 and lost 30 while Oil City has won 56 and lost 31. Oil City has played two more games than New Castle.

Elsewhere in league action last night Butler trimmed Youngstown 8-5 to put the Tigers 6½ games back, with Erie now trailing by six games.

Maloney Jinx Broken

New Castle had to sweat for its three runs against Carl Maloney who dropped a three-hitter and who had beaten them three times previously. In the first, Gene Bilo singled and took second on a passed ball. This proved a break since successive outfield flies by Dick Ackerman and Tom Famiglietti moved him around.

In the fifth two successive errors by Erie third baseman Ray Rambin on bunts by Becka and Bilo set up scores. They both scored on Famiglietti's buzzing drive to center.

The Nats trailed 2-1 going into the eighth inning of the nightcap when Dan Dondero's single and Ackerman's, two-bagger tied the score. After sending six men to the plate against Carl Mains in the ninth without results, New Castle scored twice in the tenth.

Winning Run Forced In

Famiglietti scratched a hit to the infield as a starter. Al Mouton sacrificed and Bill Horne was intentionally walked. George Depillo's single scored Famiglietti. George Eikenberg flied out to left for the second out but Rossman drew a walk to fill the bases. This was the end for Mains who was relieved by "Chuck" Hagy. Hagy walked Bilo to force over the second and winning run of the frame before fanning Dondero.

Universal-Rundle Night

Rossman was touched for a double and two singles in Erie's half of the tenth but got off with one run for the victory.

Saturday night at Flaherty field will be "Universal-Rundle Night" with the Athletic Association of the local plant sponsoring a large crowd for the Senators as they take on the Ohio "cousins".

Lets's back the Senators tonight.

Elmer Lakatos, 133 pounder of Youngstown, who boxed as an amateur in the Arena, and who has scored a technical knockout in each of his three fights at Pittsburgh, will add lustre to the August 17 fight docket, when Elkins Brothers meets Johnny Swanson of Buffalo, in an eight round, heavyweight match at Flaherty field. Lakatos has been matched to box Jimmy Canasta of Cumberland, Md.

Bill Bradley, local 165-pounder will return to the game to battle Al Heard of Cleveland. Tommy Salem, of Cleveland, will box Sammy Anderson of Pittsburgh at 126 and Julian Keene, of Washington and Tony Netro of Warren, will battle in a six round, lightweight semi-final bout.

Bombers-Rocks Battle Tonight For Third Place

DeCarbo Bombers and the East Side Shamrocks will play off their third-place tie in the City Softball League tonight at Lehigh field at 6:15.

Both teams ended up with 17-10 records during the regular season.

Bombers defeated Sharon Westinghouse 10-8 Thursday evening at Gaston Park. The win gave the Bombers three out of five for the year with the visitors.

McFarland went the route for DeCarbos for the win. Caiazza, Copple and Conti had three hits apiece for the Bombers. Blair had three hits for Westinghouse.

Pleasure Horse Show Saturday

Lots of horse-action and just for fun will be on display Saturday afternoon and evening at the Lawrence County Saddle and Harness Association's show grounds at Deshon Village.

The saddle club is sponsoring this pleasure show mostly for amusement. There is no admission fee, and entry fee for horses is only fifty cents.

The afternoon show starts at 1:30 and the evening performance gets underway at seven o'clock.

Saturday's show will feature plenty of ponies for the kiddies and such spectator-pleasing events as musical chairs, neck reining, a pick-up race, and a tug-of-war. There is also a five-gaited amateur class, a roadster class, and some other special events that feature some of the county's finest Western horses and equipment.

Detroit Tigers Increase Lead; Win Over Yankees

By HOWARD SIGMAND
(International News Service Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Aug. 4—(INS)—The "new look" Detroit Tigers were solid first-placers again today.

Young Art Houtteman faced the Bombers after a two-day delay and set them back, 5 to 2, yesterday.

This placed the Bengals 2½ games ahead in the standings and dropped the Yankees into third place, behind Cleveland.

And now the Yankees move to Cleveland for a three-game set beginning tonight with the torrid Indians.

The only other American League game yesterday saw Randy Gumpert of the Chicago White Sox blank the Philadelphia Athletics, 1 to 0 on a four-hitter.

BRAVES TOP CARDS

Another four-hitter was served up by Vern Bickford of the Boston Braves, who beat the St. Louis Cardinals, 5 to 1 to move his team into second place in the National League.

The Brooklyn-Pittsburgh day game and the Philadelphia-Cincinnati night game were rained out.

Artillery-Indies To Battle Tonight

The 229th Field Artillery baseball team will play the Lawrence Indies tonight at Chmura field at 6 o'clock instead of Sunday at Washington field, it was announced today by Manager Bob Brest of the Artillery team. This is a city league encounter.

The Red Sox look like factors again despite all the ground they lost by sagging after a bold start.

SAINTS LEAD LOOP

St. Margaret's Orlando and McCullough hit home runs and Carik of the 229th Field Artillery tripled in yesterday's game which the Saints took 12 to 8. The Artillery led going into the fourth when the Saints scored six runs to add to three, giving them a five-run lead. Carik relieved Parish on the Artillery mound while Ferrante took over Melchiore's flinging duties.

Batteries: Saints, Melchiore, Ferrante, and Masters; Artillery: Parish, Carik, and Hogue; Umpires: Susio and Coughlin.

WIN IN SIXTH

Ecclesians defeated the DeCarbo Bombers six to five yesterday. With a five to three lead, things looked roseate for the Ecclesians but, when the fifth inning was over, the DeCarbo team had bombed in two runs, deadlocking the score 5-5, and things looked roseate. However, in the sixth Annarella swung lustily. The stick hit the ball, and the blow was good for three bases, scoring a runner with the sixth, and winning run.

Ecclesians .. 202 101 x—	6	5	2

Batteries: DeCarbo, Walls, Krueger, and Via; Ecclesian: Russo and Boak; Umpires: Fabian and Budai.

FRANKS WIN AGAIN

Franks won again yesterday, beating Croton 7 to 5, in a 17 hits game, Croton getting nine and the Franks one less. Paris of Croton and Conti of Franks each poled a twin-base clout. Black of Franks had two errors while Bloise of Croton miscued once. Gurgolo was relieved on the hill for Franks by Burkes in the sixth while Memo and F. Cook pitched for the losers.

HERE and THERE IN SPORTS LAND

ONE OF THE most surprising catches in fishing annals of Lawrence county occurred recently when Oscar Murphy, Huron avenue, a yardmaster of the B&O Railroad, caught a 25-inch, four-pound Northern Pike in the Neshannock creek, one-half mile below the Big Hole.

This was the first "Northerner" taken from the Neshannock in years, and how it got into the stream is unknown, because, according to veteran fishermen, Northern Pike are not native in the Neshannock.

This was the second fishing surprise within two years, an Eel having been taken by a young fisherman from the Big Hole last year. Eels have been conspicuous for their absence in that stream.

Murphy was plugging with a Heddon Basserino at 11:45 a.m. when he got the strike. The "Northerner" gave him a fight, but after clever maneuvering he managed to land the "Northerner".

At first, he believed he had caught a "Muskie". After he had the fish at home he summoned Al Candioto, who is well versed in matters piscatorial. Al pronounced the fish a Northern Pike.

EVERY NOW AND THEN one notices a nicety of life. Here & There witnessed such yesterday, when a young man, probably 20, saw an elderly gentleman, shoulders stooped with age, afraid to cross East Washington street, at the Public Square. Taking hold of the aged gentleman's arm, the young man guided him safely across the street, which was heavy with traffic. . . . Willie and Eddie DeCarbo report the DeCarbo Bombers' chances in the City circuit fled when two of their best players were injured. "Take Romeo and DeLeone away and there won't be a team," the DeCarbos report. . . . State Policeman Symanowitz, who formerly was attached to the Auto Drivers Examination squad here, is stationed at the Peninsula, Lake Erie, and recently met Ray Hall, who fished for bass. . . . Willie G. McMullen has temporarily abandoned police catches in favor of Canadian fish catches. . . . Following a siege in the hospital, Franke Ross, former boxer and baseball umpire, is around, not fully well, but as well as circumstances permit.

TWO FRIENDS who are creeping up the Ladder of Age held a fish-fanning-bee yesterady. One was August Alles, who spent the winter and part of the summer in Florida, but who has returned North to remain. Alles said that fishing was great where he stayed, and among his catches was a 60-pound Baracuda. He said he also saw a couple of sharks swim over his line. . . . August 20 will be a bright day at Sylvan Heights golf course, according to Sammie Haycock, manager. The Western Pennsylvania and Eastern Ohio Publinks tourney is to be held that day. Golfers who desire a starting time should send five "bucks" to Haycock at Box 213 before August 13. Some of this district's top golfers, including past winners of the events, are expected to tee off. . . . Bobby Neal of Beaver Falls, who is piloted by Nat Moll of Aliquippa, appears the best welterweight in the tri-state district, following his win over Sammy Mastrean at Pittsburgh. . . . Romeo Pacelli, ex-featherweight boxer, recently caught a 5½-pound Largemouth Bass in Conneaut Lake, which he registered as one of the biggest Largemouths yet caught. The lake prize last season was a 5¾-pound Largemouth.

JIMMY BELL, who attended the convention of the 52nd Engineers of World War I at Fort Wayne, and 83 other vets who helped stop Kaiser Bill, witnessed a Girls Baseball league double-header between the Daisies of Ft. Wayne and Comets of Kenosha. Ft. Wayne won both games, and according to Bell: "Either team could beat the Senators." Max Carey, former Pirate, manages the Ft. Wayne team and according to Bell, said he would not trade his pint-sized girl shortstop for Lou Boudreau. The girls in the league draw good money, and several of them are playing "hard ball" to pay college tuitions. Incidentally, Paddy Haddock, Rochester, N. Y., who is International Secretary of the Hoboes of America (of which Here & There is a member) was at the convention. Haddock was Here & There's sponsor in the H. of A. . . . For those who fish the Pymatuning, be it known that Alleyes and Saugers will hybridize. . . . Wes Davies and Ira Butler are at Jack Sines' cottage, along French creek, north of Cambridge Springs. Sines caught a "Muskie" several days ago.

Detroit Tigers Purchase Borowy

Pittsburgh Gets Around $35,000

DETROIT, Aug. 4.—(INS)—The Detroit Tigers have purchased Hank Borowy, 32-year-old right-handed pitcher, from the Pittsburgh Pirates in the National League.

Officials of the club said the purchase price was "in the neighborhood" of $35,000.

The club hopes Borowy, formerly of the New York Yankees, Phillies and Chicago Cubs, will be the needed support for the league-leading Tigers' ailing pitching staff.

Call Up Connelly

The Tigers also have called up a 25-year-old pitcher from their Toledo farm club in another attempt to bolster their fight for American League leadership.

Saul Rogovin, who has been with the Tigers and had a 2-1 record, was optioned to the Toledo Mud Hens to make room for right-hander William Connelly. Regovin has been bothered with a sore arme lately.

The newcomer is 25 years old, 6 feet tall and weighs 170. He has won three and lost five with Toledo this year. He won 8 and lost 11 last season.

Connelly is expected to help with relief chores on the Tiger staff which has been reduced to seven by injuries.

Believe Stevens Will Play In 1951

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 4.—(INS)—Pittsburgh physicians who are thoroughly checking the mystifying malady of first baseman Eddie Stevens gave the 25-year-old Pirate prospect some encouragement today.

A tentative report showed some evidence that Stevens has an infection of the spine. If further X-rays and tests substantiate the early diagnosis, physicians believe the condition can be cleared up and Stevens will be back on first next year.

Louis needs money to pay Uncle Sam a whopping tax debt. He was said to have offered the government his entire purse from the Charles bout in settlement of the approximately $200,000 he owes in taxes.

Recreation League Baseball Results

Pirates 16, Vikings 5.
Ecclesians 4, Kiner Nine 2.

RECREATION SHORTS

Len Gilbert fanned nine and held the Kiner Nine to four hits at Lehigh field Thursday. . . . Nicholson hit a home run, triple, and single for Ecclesians.

PLAYGROUND SOFTBALL

Pollock Midgets defeated Big Run Midgets 13-4 Thursday afternoon at Rose Avenue. . . . Chuck Farrone was the winning pitcher. . . . Farrone, Jim Maciarello and Jim Palmer hit home runs. . . . Dean Park defeated Croton 4-3. Demos was the winning pitcher.

Erie Vets Will Battle Steelers

CAMBRIDGE SPRINGS, Pa., Aug. 4.—(INS)—The Pittsburgh Steelers and the Erie Vets will meet in an exhibition football game at Erie Aug. 31.

Announcement of the added practice game highlighted today's news out of the Steelers' training camp at Cambridge Springs. The two teams met last season and Erie scared the Pittsburgh outfit but lost 10 to 7.

Tackle Len Kiersarsky of Bucknell and halfbacks Larry Cooney of Penn State and Vic Pepper of Geneva were released.

Charles Pleases Crowd At Arnold

Boxes Exhibition With Modzele

ARNOLD, Pa., Aug. 4.—(INS)—Ezzard Charles stepped up his training program today for a heavyweight title fight with Freddie Beshore in Buffalo August 15.

The National Boxing Association titlist went four rounds in an exhibition with Joe Modzele of New Kensington, Pa., on a benefit boxing card in Arnold last night and the fans were well-pleased with his showing.

Bryant Defeats Peaks

It was Charles' first ring appearance since his reinstatement after a suspension because of a bruised heart muscle. He weighed 186, four pounds above the weight he expects to carry against Beshore.

In the main event on the card Levi Bryant of New York won a unanimous decision over Sid Peaks of Louisville in a 10-round heavyweight bout. Bryant weighed 200, Peaks 220.

The Chicago Natural History museum was formerly known as the Field Museum of Natural History.

Moravia-Jackson, Third U.P. Win

Moravia-Jackson and Third U. P. won important tilts in the Church Softball League playoffs last night.

Third U. P. made it two in a row over Highland U. P. with a 5-4 win. This completes the first round for these two clubs and Third is now eligible for the championship playoff.

Moore broke up a 4-4 tie in the seventh inning last night with a single that plated the winning run. Key hitters in addition to Moore were Henderson, Burr, and Llewellyn.

Moravia-Jackson evened its series with First Baptist at one game each by winning, 9-2, at Deshon field.

Don Tindall was the winning hurler and Don Lutz was checked with the loss. Tindall slapped a grand-slam home-run in the first inning to win his own game.

These two clubs meet in the final game of the first round tonight at Gaston Park. Game time is six o'clock.

STONE MARKS SITE

CAMBRIDGE, Mass.—A monument has been erected here to mark the spot where George Washington assumed command of the Continental Army in 1775. In Washington's day a huge elm overspread the site. This tree, old even then, remained standing until 1922, when it was felled by a windstorm.

SAVES WALKING UP!

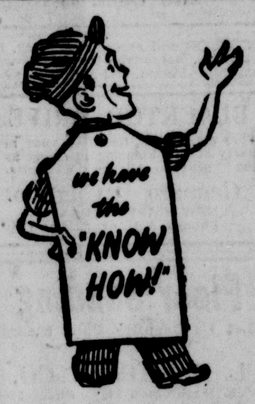

VIENNA—The city of Salzburg last year built a three-story apartment house to ease that community's housing shortage. The apartments are still vacant. The contractor forgot to build any staircases.

Harrisburg Woman Charged With Murder Of Two Children

HARRISBURG, Aug. 4.—(INS)—Mrs. Ella Bergstresser, 27, is in Dauphin county prison today awaiting a hearing for the death of her two infant children.

The woman was discovered unconscious yesterday on a bed in a gas-filled second floor bedroom of her Harrisburg residence. Her children Vonnie, 16 months, and Ronald, four months, were beside her.

Attempts to revive the children were unsuccessful, but the mother regained consciousness at Harrisburg hospital.

Police said Mrs. Bergstresser gave no reason for her action.

A detective discovered a scribbled note on the dining room table addressed to the husband, John 25. "You said I didn't have the nerve, now you have nobody but yourself," police said the note stated.

The husband, an interior decorator, was at work when the bodies were found by landlord Elmer R. Campbell.

Police charged Mrs. Bergstresser with murder.

State Capitol

Planning Board Right On Census

(By International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Aug. 3. — The state planning board has reported success in calling the shots of population trends in Pennsylvania. . . . Latest estimates varied by only one-half of one per cent from preliminary 1950 figures announced by the U. S. Census Bureau, the board disclosed. . . . The board said some discrepancies were caused by the commonwealth's inclusion of Pennsylvania servicemen in the state's population. . . . Nevertheless, the board claimed that "with few exceptions the preliminary figures of the U. S. Bureau of Census substantiated the estimates of the board". . . . These estimates included forecasts that Philadelphia's population would exceed 2,000,000 this year and that large increases also would be noted for the quaker city's suburban counties and for Dauphin, Erie, York, Lehigh and Lancaster counties. . . . Slight gains were predicted for Allegheny, Beaver, Butler and several other western counties but declines were indicated for Westmoreland, Fayette, Somerset, Lackawanna, Luzerne, Northumberland, Schuylkill and several other counties. . . . The board said county population estimates for 1952 already are in their early stages.

Staff workers of the Pennsylvania State Education Association were non-plussed by an anti-Dilworth statement attributed to James V. O'Donnell, of Wilkes-Barre, who described himself as "an officer" of the PSEA. . . . O'Donnell refuted charges by the Democratic gubernatorial candidate that school teachers of Luzerne County were maced for 10 per cent of their salaries by the party organization headed by Republican candidate John S. Fine. . . . The GOP state committee labeled O'Donnell as "president of the united legislative committee of the Pennsylvania Education Association, Luzerne County." . . . PSEA spokesmen at Harrisburg emphasized that he did not speak for the entire organization and pointed out that he is not a statewide officer. State Sen. M. Harvey Taylor, long a potent figure in Republican political circles, may become Pennsylvania's next governor. . . . Mobilization of the 28th Infantry Division, commanded by Maj. Gen. Daniel B. Strickler who is also lieutenant-governor, ignited speculation that Taylor, known to wield much power in selecting gubernatorial nominees, may wear the mantle himself for two weeks. . . . Strickler will leave the office of lieutenant-governor vacant when he reports with the National Guard division and if Gov. James H. Duff is elected U. S. senator, Pennsylvania's top elective job will fall to Taylor who is president pro tempore of the state senate, the third highest position in state government. . . . It was pointed out that if Governor Duff is elected, it would be important for seniority reasons that he resign as governor to take oath of office the first day of Congress, January 3. . . . His term as governor does not expire until January 16, thereby creating a two-week interim in which Taylor would be governor. . . . Four years ago when former Governor Edward Martin was senator-elect, he resigned to take his congressional oath. . . . Lieut. Gov. John C. Bell took the helm for 19 days until Duff was sworn in as governor.

A state game commission spokesman said the extension of the 1950 grouse and turkey season was influenced by reports submitted to the commission by game protectors and outdoorsmen. . . . The reports indicated that the increase of turkeys and grouse was satisfactory throughout the state. . . . Fair to large broods of both choice game birds have been observed in many parts of the state, the spokesman said, leading to the belief that game bird populations are on the upswing. . . . The commission attributed the increase in flocks to favorable spring weather hatching, improved food and cover conditions in many sections and the wide turkey stocking and feeding programs.

WILMINGTON, O.—Farmer Eugene Schaffer of Wilmington has a hen which he believes must be a champion of some sort. The bird recently laid a "king size" eight-ounce egg, approximately four times the size of an ordinary hen's egg.

New York Stocks

Market Today Is Irregular

NEW YORK, Aug. 4—(INS)—The stock market churned around irregularly today. A few issues showed important price changes, but the main body of stocks did little.

International Paper was in demand, advancing a point to a new high at 48½. Texas Pacific Coal and Oil gained 1⅛ to 34⅞, and Union Carbide rose ½ to 45⅜.

Among the pivotal industrials, DuPont was a soft spot, declining 1⅜ to 73. Chrysler was off ⅜ at 66⅝; U.S. Steel was ¼ at 35¾, and General Motors was off ¼ at 86⅞.

Merger Affects Stocks

The two rail equipment stocks involved in a merger proposal were again heavily traded. Lima Hamilton, after opening unchanged on a block of 15,000 shares, eased ⅜ to 11⅛. Baldwin was off ⅛ at 15 on a block of 5,000 shares.

New York, Chicago and St. Louis Railroad featured a mixed rail list with a run-up of 2½ points to 110½, following a 3 point spurt yesterday. Atchison was off ¼ at 122¼.

Curb stocks were firm. Cities Service gained ¼, Electric Bond and Share was up ⅛ and Kaiser Frazer was unchanged.

The bond market was spotty with the rail list irregularly lower.

Rubber again featured commodities with a new limited gain of 2 cents a pound. Corn was off 1 cent a bushel, and wheat and corn were slightly lower.

Auto Hits Pole; Fire Alarm Out

Accident Caused By On-Coming Car

Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Gennaula, 805 Emerson avenue, escaped injury when her auto struck a pole at Stewart place and Highland avenue at 7:05 a. m. today. The impact snapped off wires, putting the fire alarm temporarily out of operation.

She was driving south at the curve when she saw a Buick traveling north on the wrong side of the current of traffic.

Mrs. Gennaula, in order to avoid a collision with the on-coming Buick, swerved her car, which struck a pole.

City Electrician Rex Hughes was summoned and restored the fire alarm to operation.

Acceptance Company Declares Bankruptcy

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 4.—(INS)—A $2,000,000 voluntary bankruptcy petition, one of the largest in recent years, has been filed in Federal court by the Philadelphia Acceptance Corporation.

The corporation for 14 years had specialized in providing cash to whiskey distillers and winemakers on the security of their warehouse stocks.

Charles W. Collum, corporation president, of Spring House, near Ambler, listed assets of $1,020,865.61 against liabilities of $2,067,734.08.

The largest liability, apparently, was a $694,600 promissory note held by the People's First National Bank and Trust Co., Pittsburgh.

The note was indorsed by the Philadelphia Acceptance Corp. and was secured by warehouse receipts of the Sherwood Distilling Co., Westminster, Md.

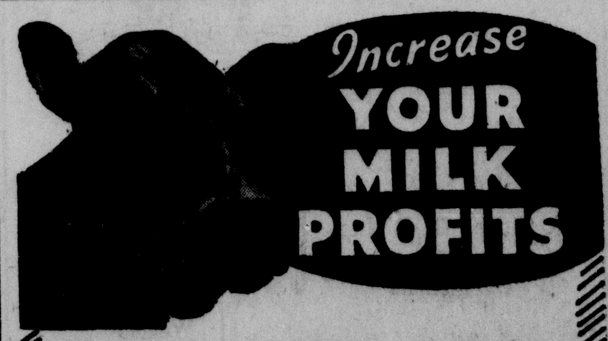

The Pittsburgh bank filed suit in Federal Court in Baltimore last Wednesday to halt the removal of any whiskey covered by the receipts, charging that the receipts on which Sherwood was advanced $694,000 a year ago were used subsequently in part to secure a loan obtained from the Union Trust Co., Maryland.

Americans Need To Learn What Is Means To Relax

By ROGER W. BABSON

(Copyright—1950—Publishers Financial Bureau, Inc.)

BABSON PARK, Mass., Aug. 4.—"Poor Tom, he was such a nice guy. I was shocked to hear of his untimely death. He was was still in his early fifties..." Conversations like this are heard too frequently today. I'm very much concerned about the way we are wasting our needed brain power.

Roger W. Babson

The struggle today for personal, economic, social and political survival is taxing many men to overexertion. The business tempo becomes faster and faster whether you are on the production line, in the office, or part of management. Today's social responsibilities find men burning the candle at both ends. Hot and cold wars help keep men nervous and jittery. The result: a civilization "on the go" of impatient, tense persons, characterized by hypertensions, ulcers, insomnia, a high divorce rate, delinquency and crime.

Have you too become touchy and sensitive about little things? Have family quarrels grown out of proportion to the incident? Do business associates make you irritable? Are headaches bothering you? Chances are, then, you too have forgotten how to relax. My long years of active life have taught me that, if you are to survive, you will have to learn how to conserve and utilize economically your own physical and mental resoruces. You owe it not only to yourself and your family, but to your country. A healthy, vigorous, emotionally well-balanced stock is especially essential to the democratic state if it is not to be submerged and overrun.

Hard Work vs Overwork

Hard work never hurt anyone. There is, however, a very real difference between hard work and overwork. Hard work produces a pleasant, healthy good-and-tired feeling, easily dispelled by food and sleep. Overwork drives tired body and mind on and on without rest and without thought of the consequences of overfatigue. Many overworked people can't seem to slow down. Instead they immerse themselves in more work or seek escape through overstimulating commercial amusements, or liquor. No matter what a man's goal may be—money, professional advancement, social prestige or what have you—he must take time out periodically to restore body tonus.

Too many American businessmen are tense, headachy and hurried, believing that if they are to attain their goals, they cannot take time for quiet diversion. These individuals will not live long! They are "selling themselves for a mess of pottage". What most of these overworked people don't realize is that they could easily accomplish 50 per cent better results if they would learn how to relax through regular periods of constructive body-mind-soul refreshment.

Maintaining Maximum Output

Too few business leaders have concerned themselves with their own problems of prevention of psycho-physical breakdown and increasing their own personal stamina, particularly those over 40. It is not my purpose to prescribe a course of action for such individuals. I shall be satisfied if I have made them aware of their own needs. They owe it to the concern for which they work.

Experience has taught me that in order to maintain maximum output, the average man must find a job he enjoys doing, maintain good health, learn how to play, achieve satisfaction in love, and keep spiritually refreshed. To live a useful, well-balanced life today requires vigor. Vigor comes primarily from physical, mental and spiritual energy. Such energy can be built up only by alternating periods of powerful output with proper periods of relaxation and meditation—preparation for even greater achievement.

Take Quiet Vacations

This is vacation time. Take a vacation by all means. Take with you a book or two on relaxation, meditation and prayer. It is an excellent time to set up a conservation program for your own resoruces! Don't dash around in an automobile. Go to some quiet place and sleep!
